Spy Mission By Bulgarian Jet Indicated

Italians Continue Probe Of Crashed Plane Equipment

ROME (AP) — Italy said Monday there were indications that a Soviet-built jet plane from Communist Bulgaria was on an aerial spying mission when it crashed in this country Saturday.

A statement by the Italian Defense Ministry said further investigation would be conducted to "establish whether the already existing indications of a true and proper case of aerial espionage can be further substantiated."

The statement said investigators were examining aerial photographic apparatus and other equipment aboard the plane that crash-landed near a secret missile base in southern Italy, after making two passes over the base.

Pilot Faces Possible Trial

The Bulgarian pilot, Lt. Miluse Solakov Kirov, probably will be brought to trial in Italy, a spokesman said.

After the Defense Ministry statement was released, a high Italian government source declared: "From the material we now have on hand, we can say the mission of the Bulgarian aircraft was unfriendly. We expect to state flatly in the next few days that the plane was flying a spy mission."

In some ways the case appeared to be similar—in reverse—to the incident May 1960 when an American U2 plane came down in the Soviet Union, leading to grave international complications.

Defection Claim Discounted

The Italian Defense Ministry said the case "obviously presents substantial aspects of an international character—political as well as military."

Kirov, the communique added, "said that he escaped from Bulgaria in order to evade the political regime of that country" and "asked not to be put into contact with Bulgarian diplomatic authorities in Italy."

The communique did not give the government's view of this contention, but earlier Italian investigators had said they regarded this as most improbable.

In Washington, State Department press officer Lincoln White maintained the U.S. government's present policy of not commenting on the episode.

Orbital Flight Delayed Again; Reset Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Gremlins in the oxygen system designed to feed astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. the breath of life forced a new postponement Monday of his round-the-world space flight. It's off until Saturday, at the earliest.

If the fault had gone uncorrected, officials said, there was a possibility that oxygen would be used up at an excessive rate should the space craft lose pressure during its three whirls around the globe.

This could have spelled disaster for Marine Lt. Col. Glenn, who had been scheduled to embark on his great adventure Wednesday.

Glenn took the delay philosophically, according to officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He was reported to have said tersely: "The additional time will only increase our sharpness."

Earlier in the day, sources close to NASA indicated the trouble might have been due to the invasion of the delicate oxygen life-line by tiny specks of dust, perhaps preventing a valve from closing.

However, officials said later that on closer examination no evidence of dust was discovered. They did not say exactly what the trouble was, merely announcing that a couple of vital parts were being replaced and that "tests of the system continued."

The space cabin is filled with oxygen at a pressure similar to that on earth—much the way that passenger cabins on jet airliners are pressurized.

Astronaut Glenn will wear a space suit which will provide him both with oxygen to breathe.

Tradition's Omission Not Sentence Upset Grounds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Failure of a federal judge to ask a convicted criminal if he wants to say anything before sentence is imposed isn't grounds for upsetting the sentence, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

Justice Potter Stewart, speaking for the 5-4 majority, said failure to follow the tradition "is not a fundamental defect which inherently results in a complete miscarriage of justice, nor an omission inconsistent with the rudimentary demands of fair procedure."

A dissenting opinion delivered by Justice Hugo L. Black said, "The anciently recognized tradition" is "important to the proper administration of justice."

Black was joined by Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan Jr.

The decision was on an appeal by James Francis Hill, who was sentenced in 1954, in Knoxville, Tenn., to 23 years for transporting a kidnaped person and a stolen automobile.

It other decisions handed down before it recessed for four weeks, the court:

1. Refused to look again into the long fight by two University of Washington professors—Howard L. Nostrand and Max Savelle—against a law requiring all states' employees to take a non-Communist oath.
2. Agreed to hear appeals from an order barring six major distributors of old movies from package-bookings their films to TV stations. In 1948 the Supreme Court condemned block-booking of films for theatres.

House Unit Votes Utilities Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means committee overrode Treasury objections on Monday and approved a tax cut of about $300 million a year for the electric, gas and communications industries.

The new tax relief, if enacted into law, would wipe out two-thirds of the $463 million surplus in the new budget which President Kennedy sent to Congress last week.

The committee took its stand while considering behind closed doors the administration's proposal to provide $1.5 billion in tax incentives to business to spur economic growth.

Stock Exchange President Quits

NEW YORK (AP)—Joseph F. Reilly resigned Monday as chairman and president pro tem of the American Stock Exchange.

The board of governors immediately elected Edwin Posner, president pro tem, Posner is a nominee for chairman at the Feb. 12 election of the exchange, now being investigated by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Reilly's resignation was part of a continuing sweep of the embattled exchange's top command. Edward T. McCormick resigned as president last Dec. 11.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has accused the exchange of "manifold and prolonged" abuses of trading rules.

Resigning, with Reilly were Vice Chairman Charles J. Booklet and Governors James R. Dyer and John J. Mann.

Lightning Hits Bob Hope Plane

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope, whose airline plane was struck by lightning en route home from the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament, said Monday, "I felt like a bagful of old divots."

Hope said the Pacific Airlines plane was hit Sunday by a bolt of lightning 15 minutes after it had left Monterey, Calif.

"There was a thud and a flash of light," Hope recounted, "and I thought an engine had backfired. The stewardess told me a piece of luggage had fallen. But the pilot announced the nose of the plane had been belted by lightning."

"I turned to Jane Wyman, who was sitting next to me and asked her if there was an insurance machine on the plane. I'd have made out the insurance and thrown it overboard."

The comedian said the pilot announced the plane's instruments had been damaged and that the plane would head for San Francisco.

"I finally caught another flight out of San Francisco, late Sunday afternoon. But I was really worried when he said the instruments were messed up. It was overcast and if the radio was busted we'd have been in big trouble."

Senate Unit Approves McCone Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's nomination of John A. McCone as director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was approved unanimously Monday by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The action was reported by chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who told reporters that several members of the committee reserved the right to further explain their position on the Senate floor. The Senate is expected to act this week, possibly Thursday.

Several senators had questioned McCone about his stockholdings and whether they might constitute a conflict of interest. He assured them he had no holdings or interests that would influence his judgment in the sensitive government post.

Bob Kennedy Says He Won't Visit Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Monday night he will not visit the Soviet Union during his round-the-world trip.

The attorney general said he received an informal invitation to visit Moscow but his plans for the trip cannot be changed now.

He said he would look forward to visiting the Soviet Union in the future.

Kennedy, brother of the President, issued a statement saying: "I have received an informal invitation to visit the Soviet Union during my currently planned trip. My travel plans, however, have been completed for some time and I will not be able to alter them at this time. I will, however, look forward to visiting the Soviet Union in the future."

Kennedy's itinerary now calls for speech-making and visits with government officials in Japan, Indonesia, Iran, Germany and Holland on a trip starting Feb. 2 and ending about Feb. 26.

The White House and the State Department kept mum on just who asked Kennedy to come to Moscow, merely acknowledging "an informal invitation has been extended to the attorney general to visit the Soviet Union." Nor was there any official word on why the bid was made.

JFK Expects Giant Stride In Economy

Defenses Against Further Recessions Urged By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy predicted Monday a "giant stride" toward a fully employed American economy in 1962, and called for defense-in-depth against future recessions.

If proper steps are taken, he said in his annual economic report sent to Congress, the nation need not be doomed to an "alternation of lean years and fat."

"The business cycle does not have the inevitability of the calendar," he asserted.

For the first time, Kennedy spelled out details of his controversial proposal for standby power to cut individual income taxes if the economy begins to slide.

This, he figured, could increase purchasing power as much as $10 billion if the cut remained in effect a year. The reduction for taxpayers at the bottom of the economic pyramid would be much greater, percentage-wise, than for those in the high brackets.

He also asked standby authority to start, or speed up, $2 billion of public works and other pump-priming activities in case recession threatened. And, among many other recommendations, he urged broadening of the jobless pay system and extension of the benefit periods.

Joblessness Still Too High

Since World War II, Kennedy said, the country has had four recessions and when he took office last January was in the grip of the latest one.

"The downturn was reversed," he said, and the gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced—grew from an annual rate of $50 billion in the first quarter of 1961 to a record annual rate of $54.2 billion in the last quarter.

Unemployment dropped from 6.8 to 6.1 per cent of the labor force, he added, but was "still far too high."

For 1961 as a whole, he said, the gross national product (gnp) was $521 billion, and he predicted $571 billion in 1962—a "giant stride."

Kennedy's plan for authority to cut income taxes has met a cold reception in a Congress jealous of purse strings and taxing power. But the President went to bat strongly for it, saying it could be "a powerful safeguard against recession."

Temporary Emergency Step

He said he was not asking Congress to delegate its taxing power but only to authorize a temporary, emergency step—subject to the check rein of congressional veto—"in situations where time is of the essence."

Under the plan, the President could submit to Congress a proposal to cut tax rates by as much as 5 percentage points for a period of six months.

Kennedy said that, figuring on present levels of income, the government's annual rate of tax take would be reduced by $10 billion, or $5 billion for six months.

Kennedy's message set out for the first time the conditions under which he could "trigger" spending on public works.

If Congress approves the standby legislation he is asking, the president could start the pump-priming when:

1. The unemployment rate had risen in at least three out of four months or four out of six months and
2. It had reached a level at least one percentage point higher than four months or six months earlier.

The president then could lay out: $750 million to speed projects (Continued on page 2, col. 4)

French Foreign Office Bombed; 1 Killed, 32 Hurt

PARIS (UPI)—The Secret Army Organization (OAS) exploded a plastic bomb in the courtyard of the Foreign Office Monday, killing one man and injuring 32. Other OAS secret agents kidnapped a Gaullist deputy who was found unharmed later.

The daring actions in Paris by the outlawed extremist group which has drenched Algeria in blood brought demands that President Charles de Gaulle resume his dictatorial powers and crush the rebellious army men.

The explosion fatality was believed to be the first in Paris since the OAS launched a campaign of nightly bombings as part of their campaign to prevent de Gaulle from granting independence to a Moslem Algeria.

In Algeria—where the OAS launched a campaign of violence New Year's Day—seven persons were killed and seven wounded Monday to bring the year's death toll to at least 400 dead and 727 wounded.

The blast at the entrance of the Quai d'Orsay was the 23rd plastic bombing blamed on the OAS in Paris within a week. Eighteen exploded in one night following a cabinet declaration to fight the extremists with all means available.

The Foreign Office explosion set fire to three nearby cars, sprayed building glass on several workers and damaged the walls and ceilings of two offices overlooking the courtyard. The office telephone room was wrecked and one corridor ceiling collapsed.

Authorities said the bomb exploded in a diplomatic delivery truck and they speculated it had been planted before the truck entered the courtyard. The explosion blasted almost beyond recognition a Foreign Office employee loading mail.

The kidnapped Gaullist deputy was Dr. Paul Mainguy, 53, a family doctor. He was kidnapped at machinegun point from his suburban home and was found safe in a Paris suburb four hours later.

No One Injured In Caracas Blast

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — A powerful bomb explosion Monday wrecked a bathroom and blew out part of the wall of the U.S. Embassy only 50 feet from the ambassador's office. The embassy was immediately evacuated.

No one was injured but damage was reported to be extensive. The bomb explosion climaxed a day of leftist pro-Castro violence protesting the Punta del Este conference where communism in Cuba is being discussed.

One soldier was reported killed in a shooting fray with students. Several persons were reported wounded in scattered violence throughout the city.

An embassy spokesman said the blast "totally wrecked" a men's room on the embassy's seventh floor. Some windows were blown out in the suburban H-shaped building.

Ambassador Not In Office

U.S. Ambassador Alan Stewart was not in his office when the blast was detonated at 3 p.m. The bathroom is located down the hall from his personal office.

Earlier today, a mob burned a bus in downtown Caracas in support of a transport strike of bus and taxi drivers. One man was wounded in the leg when national guardsmen opened fire to disperse the rioters.

At least five cars were set afire at Venezuela Square, near the gates of the Central University, central point of leftist agitation. The university was closed down indefinitely by authorities in the face of a Communist-student strike protesting the Punta del Este meeting.

Gun Battle Reported

Unconfirmed reports said a gun battle had erupted in the university environs but they could not be confirmed. At midday, a group of anti-Castro Cubans clashed with leftist students and police were forced to break up the fist fights.

Monday's bomb explosion burst a water main and sent water cascading through the seven-story embassy building opened less than two years ago. Falling debris ruined the garden at the front of the modernistic building. At least 50 per cent of the windows in the building were shattered. Telephone service was interrupted.

The normal two-man police guard was reinforced by rifle-bearing and tommygun-equipped national guardsmen. The embassy also has a small U.S. Marine Corps security guard.

Red Propaganda Mail Ban Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House GOP Policy Committee demanded unanimously Monday that any postal rate increase carry a ban on Communist propaganda mail.

The Republican policymakers lined up behind Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., who demanded the bar against Communist propaganda mail.

But the policy committee did not take a stand on the different rate increase measures scheduled to be considered by the House Tuesday.

A $550 million rate increase bill contains Rep. Cunningham's proposal to bar Communist propaganda from the U.S. mails. The $620-million rate increase proposed by the administration so far does not contain the ban.

Both measures would raise first class, post card and air mail rates by one cent each.

Senate Unit Approves McCone Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's nomination of John A. McCone as director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was approved unanimously Monday by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Defeat Faces U.S. In Its Bid For Penalties

Dozen Certain Votes For Penalties Two Less Than Majority

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — The historic hemisphere conference called to deal with Castro communism opened Monday and by Monday night was in the grip of paralyzing deadlock.

The possibility grew that start of actual debate in full session might be delayed 24 hours in an effort to heal splits among the delegations.

With the Cubans appearing more and more confident that they will emerge from the meeting unpunished, spokesmen for Brazil and Argentina reported backstage discussion had been fruitless.

U.S. hopes for strong collective action against Castro's regime slumped under the pressure of mounting division among Latin-American allies.

After two days of backstage conferences on how to cope with Castro's introduction of the Communist system into the Western hemisphere, chances seemed to fade that the inter-American foreign ministers conference would vote penalties against Cuba as urged by the United States.

Preliminary debate threatened widening rifts among members of the sponsoring Organization of American States.

Haiti Joins No-Penalty Ranks

Haiti, previously counted on to vote for strong action, suddenly shifted to the other side with such big nations as Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and Chile in favor of a hands-off policy.

The lineup left only 12 certain votes for penalties—2 less than the required majority.

Developing differences emboldened the Cuban delegation to predict that the anti-Cuban count will grow even smaller.

Jose A. Mora, secretary general of the OAS, opened the week-long meeting with a warning that "structures of the new world may disappear at any moment if we let forces attempting to destroy American solidarity go ahead."

He declared that the American republics "have condemned all systems tending to suppress rights and political and civilian freedoms, especially action of international communism or any totalitarianism."

Failure of the conference to agree on action against Cuba could endanger President Kennedy's ambitious $20-billion Alliance for Progress program begun last August at this same luxury resort on the Atlantic.

Congress Delay Expected

The program will face delay if not increased opposition in the U.S. Congress.

President Kennedy has been trying to convince Congress of the urgency of the program and the worth of an initial $3-billion appropriation to help the Latin-American nations build their economies as a bulwark bulwark against Communist inroads.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk hurried from one meeting to another to explain the need for firm action in this light.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Francisco San Thiago Dantas carried the ball for nations backing away from positive action.

He said there are differences among the nations on how to deal with Cuba. "But we must reach a common, unified point of view," he said.

Dantas said there were differences between Brazil and Argentina, but only on the surface.

Argentina, once thinking along the Brazilian line, has been reported edging toward a slightly stronger position.

Last Of Three W. Va. Escapees In Custody

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — The last of three prisoners who escaped from the Ohio County jail here last week was accounted for Monday afternoon when he surrendered voluntarily to police.

Robert E. McGilton, 22, of Wheeling turned himself over to local authorities but refused to tell them where he had been hiding since he and Stanley Warble, 23, Wheeling, and Kenneth Bowman, 21, also of Wheeling, escaped from the jail last Tuesday.

Warble was killed when a car in which he and Bowman were fleeing crashed near Ft. Pleasant. Bowman is hospitalized at a Gallopolis, Ohio, hospital with injuries received in the wreck.

House Unit Votes Utilities Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means committee overrode Treasury objections on Monday and approved a tax cut of about $300 million a year for the electric, gas and communications industries.

The new tax relief, if enacted into law, would wipe out two-thirds of the $463 million surplus in the new budget which President Kennedy sent to Congress last week.

The committee took its stand while considering behind closed doors the administration's proposal to provide $1.5 billion in tax incentives to business to spur economic growth.

Stock Exchange President Quits

NEW YORK (AP)—Joseph F. Reilly resigned Monday as chairman and president pro tem of the American Stock Exchange.

The board of governors immediately elected Edwin Posner president pro tem. Posner is a nominee for chairman at the Feb. 12 election of the exchange, now being investigated by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Reilly's resignation was part of a continuing sweep of the embattled exchange's top command. Edward T. McCormick resigned as president last Dec. 11.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has accused the exchange of "manifold and prolonged" abuses of trading rules.

Resigning, with Reilly were Vice Chairman Charles J. Bocklet and Governors James R. Dyer and John J. Mann.

The four had been accused by the SEC of dominating the exchange's administration for the last 10 years.

The decision was on an appeal by James Francis Hill, who was sentenced in 1954, in Knoxville, Tenn., to 23 years for transporting a kidnaped person and a stolen automobile.

Other decisions handed down before it recessed for four weeks, the court:

1. Refused to look again into the long fight by two University of Washington professors—Howard L. Nostrand and Max Savelle—against a law requiring all states' employees to take a non-Communist oath.

2. Agreed to hear appeals from an order barring six major distributors of old movies from package-bookings their films to TV stations. In 1948 the Supreme Court condemned block-booking of films for theatres.

Bob Kennedy Says He Won't Visit Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Monday night he will not visit the Soviet Union during his round-the-world trip.

The attorney general said he received an informal invitation to visit Moscow but his plans for the trip cannot be changed now.

He said he would look forward to visiting the Soviet Union in the future.

Kennedy, brother of the President, issued a statement saying: "I have received an informal invitation to visit the Soviet Union during my currently planned trip."

"My travel plans, however, have been completed for some time and I will not be able to alter them at this time. I will, however, look forward to visiting the Soviet Union in the future."

Kennedy's itinerary now calls for speech-making and visits with government officials in Japan, Indonesia, Iran, Germany and Holland on a trip starting Feb. 2 and ending about Feb. 26.

The White House and the State Department kept mum on just what Kennedy would come to Moscow, merely acknowledging "an informal invitation has been extended to the attorney general to visit the Soviet Union."

Nor was there any official word on why the bid was made.

Lightning Hits Bob Hope Plane

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comedian Bob Hope, whose airline plane was struck by lightning en route home from the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament, said Monday, "I felt like a bagful of old divots."

Hope said the Pacific Airlines plane was hit Sunday by a bolt of lightning 15 minutes after it had left Monterey, Calif.

"There was a thud and a flash of light," Hope recounted, "and I thought an engine had backfired. The stewardess told me a piece of luggage had fallen. But the pilot announced the nose of the plane had been belted by lightning."

"I turned to Jane Wyman, who was sitting next to me and asked her if there was an insurance machine on the plane. I'd have made out the insurance and thrown it overboard."

The comedian said the pilot announced the plane's instruments had been damaged and that the plane would head for San Francisco.

"I finally caught another flight out of San Francisco, late Sunday afternoon. But I was really worried when he said the instruments were messed up. It was overcast and if the radio was busted we'd have been in big trouble."

JFK Expects Giant Stride In Economy

Defenses Against Further Recessions
Urged By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy predicted Monday a "giant stride" toward a fully employed American economy in 1962, and called for defense-in-depth against future recessions.

If proper steps are taken, he said in his annual economic report sent to Congress, the nation need not be doomed to an "alternation of lean years and fat."

"The business cycle does not have the inevitability of the calendar," he asserted.

For the first time, Kennedy spelled out details of his controversial proposal for standby power to cut individual income taxes if the economy begins to slide.

This, he figured, could increase purchasing power as much as $10 billion if the cut remained in effect a year. The reduction for taxpayers at the bottom of the economic pyramid would be much greater, percentage-wise, than for those in the high brackets.

He also asked standby authority to start, or speed up, $2 billion of public works and other pump-priming activities in case recession threatened. And, among many other recommendations, he urged broadening of the jobless pay system and extension of the benefit periods.

Joblessness Still Too High

Since World War II, Kennedy said, the country has had four recessions and when he took office last January was in the grip of the latest one.

"The downturn was reversed," he said, and the gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced — grew from an annual rate of $507 billion in the first quarter of 1961 to a record annual rate of $542 billion in the last quarter.

Unemployment dropped from 6.8 to 6.1 per cent of the labor force, he added, but was "still far too high."

For 1961 as a whole, he said, the gross national product (gnp) was $521 billion, and he predicted $571 billion in 1962—a "giant stride."

Kennedy's plan for authority to cut income taxes has met a cold reception in a Congress jealous of purse strings and taxing power. But the President went to bat strongly for it, saying it could be "a powerful safeguard against recession."

Temporary Emergency Step

He said he was not asking Congress to delegate its taxing power but only to authorize a temporary, emergency step—subject to the check rein of congressional veto — "in situations where time is of the essence."

Under the plan, the President could submit to Congress a proposal to cut tax rates by as much as 5 percentage points for a period of six months.

Kennedy said that, figuring on present levels of income, the government's annual rate of tax take would be reduced by $10 billion, or $5 billion for six months.

Kennedy's message set out for the first time the conditions under which he could "trigger" spending on public works.

If Congress approves the stand-by legislation he is asking, the President could start the pump-priming when:

1. The unemployment rate had risen in at least three out of four months or four out of six months and

2. It had reached a level at least one percentage point higher than four months or six months earlier.

The President then could lay out:

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's nomination of John A. McCone as director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was approved unanimously Monday by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The action was reported by chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who told reporters that several members of the committee reserved the right to further explain their position on the Senate floor. The Senate is expected to act this week, possibly Thursday.

Several senators had questioned McCone about his stockholdings and whether they might constitute a conflict of interest. He assured them he had no holdings or interests that would influence his judgment in the sensitive government post.

Bomb Damages U.S. Embassy

TELLS OF KIDNAPING — Dr. Paul Mainguy, Gaullist Party deputy kidnapped and rescued in Paris yesterday, tells of his experiences at the hands of his captors as he is questioned in Paris police headquarters. He said that the kidnapping was the work of right-wing secret army agents and that it was done for propaganda purposes. (AP Photofax via radio from Paris)

French Foreign Office Bombed; 1 Killed, 32 Hurt

PARIS (UPI)—The Secret Army Organization (OAS) exploded a plastic bomb in the courtyard of the Foreign Office Monday, killing one man and injuring 32. Other OAS secret agents kidnapped a Gaullist deputy who was found unharmed later.

The daring actions in Paris by the outlawed extremist group which has drenched Algeria in blood brought demands that President Charles de Gaulle resume his dictatorial powers and crush the rebellious army men.

The explosion fatality was believed to be the first in Paris since the OAS launched a campaign of nightly bombings as part of their campaign to prevent De Gaulle from granting independence to a Moslem Algeria.

In Algeria—where the OAS launched a campaign of violence New Year's Day—seven persons were killed and seven wounded Monday to bring the year's death toll to at least 400 dead and 727 wounded.

The blast at the entrance of the Quai d'Orsay was the 23rd plastic bombing blamed on the OAS in Paris within a week. Eighteen exploded in one night following a cabinet declaration to fight the extremists with all means available.

The Foreign Office explosion set fire to three nearby cars, sprayed building glass on several workers and damaged the walls and ceilings of two offices overlooking the courtyard. The office telephone room was wrecked and one corridor ceiling collapsed.

Authorities said the bomb exploded in a diplomatic delivery truck and they speculated it had been planted before the truck entered the courtyard. The explosion blasted almost beyond recognition a Foreign Office employee loading mail.

The kidnapped Gaullist deputy was Dr. Paul Mainguy, 53, a family doctor. He was kidnapped at machinegun point from his suburban home and was found safe in a Paris suburb four hours later.

Riled By Congressman? "POM" Is 75-Cent Cure

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a new 75-cent cure for the something should be done about it feeling Washington goes-on-somebody produce. It's called a "POM."

All you do is lift the telephone, call Western Union and blow your top in 15 words or less.

They'll handle it as a personal opinion message—hence, "POM." They'll even look up your congressman's name for you.

Chances are, the same thing that riled you also riled a lot of other people, and the result is a kind of bulk rule that the company says it can handle cheaper than random messages.

The flat rate of 75 cents applies throughout the country. This is about half what a standard 15-word message from Chicago, for instance, would cost.

No One Injured In Caracas Blast

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — A powerful bomb explosion Monday wrecked a bathroom and blew out part of the wall of the U.S. Embassy only 50 feet from the ambassador's office. The embassy was immediately evacuated.

No one was injured but damage was reported to be extensive. The bomb explosion climaxed a day of leftist pro-Castro violence protesting the Punta del Este conference where communism in Cuba is being discussed.

One soldier was reported killed in a shooting fray with students. Several persons were reported wounded in scattered violence throughout the city.

An embassy spokesman said the blast "totally wrecked" a men's room on the embassy's seventh floor. Some windows were blown out in the suburban H-shaped building.

Ambassador Not In Office

U.S. Ambassador Alan Stewart was not in his office when the blast was detonated at 3 p.m. The bathroom is located down the hall from his personal office.

Earlier, today, a mob burned a bus in downtown Caracas in support of a transport strike of bus and taxi drivers. One man was wounded in the leg when national guardsmen opened fire to disperse the rioters.

At least five cars were set afire at Venezuela Square, near the gates of the Central University, central point of leftist agitation. The university was closed down indefinitely by authorities in the face of a Communist-called student strike protesting the Punta del Este meeting.

Gun Battle Reported

Unconfirmed reports said a gun battle had erupted in the university environs but they could not be confirmed. At midday, a group of anti-Castro Cubans clashed with leftist students and police were forced to break up the fist fights.

Monday's bomb explosion burst a water main and sent water cascading through the seven-story embassy building opened less than two years ago. Falling debris ruined the garden at the front of the modernistic building. At least 50 per cent of the windows in the building were shattered. Telephone service was interrupted.

The normal two-man police guard was reinforced by rifle-bearing and tommygun-equipped national guardsmen. The embassy also has a small U.S. Marine Corps security guard.

Red Propaganda Mail Ban Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House GOP Policy Committee demanded unanimously Monday that any postal rate increase carry a ban on Communist propaganda mail.

The Republican policymakers lined up behind Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., who demanded the ban against Communist propaganda mail.

But the policy committee did not take a stand on the different rate increase measures scheduled to be considered by the House Tuesday.

A $550 million rate increase bill contains Rep. Cunningham's proposal to bar Communist propaganda from the U.S. mails. The $620-million rate increase proposed by the administration so far does not contain the ban.

Both measures would raise first class, post card and air mail rates by one cent each.

"We're not trying to encourage a bunch of nuts to cuss out the President at their convenience," said a Western Union spokesman.

"But we've seen people want to voice their opinions," he went on. "They tell us they have something they want to tell their congressman but they don't know how to go about it."

Even before the experimental new service, announced Monday, offices of Western Union in Washington would occasionally get buried by a run of messages, pro and con, about something the White House or Congress had done.

The education bill last session generated 10,000 to 25,000 such messages a day, the firm said. It responded with a push-button system to shunt these wires directly to the affected offices.

Defeat Faces U.S. In Its Bid For Penalties

Dozen Certain Votes
For Penalties Two Less Than Majority

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — The historic hemisphere conference called to deal with Castro communism opened Monday and by Monday night was in the grip of paralyzing deadlock.

The possibility grew that start of actual debate in full session might be delayed 24 hours in an effort to heal splits among the delegations.

With the Cubans appearing more and more confident that they will emerge from the meeting unpunished, spokesmen for Brazil and Argentina reported backstage discussion had been fruitless.

U.S. hopes for strong collective action against Castro's regime slumped under the pressure of mounting disunity among Latin-American allies.

After two days of backstage conferences on how to cope with Castro's introduction of the Communist system into the Western hemisphere, chances seemed to fade that the inter-American foreign ministers conference would vote penalties against Cuba as urged by the United States.

Haiti Joins No-Penalty Ranks

Haiti, previously counted on to vote for strong action, suddenly shifted to the other side with such big nations as Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and Chile in favor of a hands-off policy.

The lineup left only 12 certain votes for penalties—2 less than the required majority.

Developing differences emboldened the Cuban delegation to predict that the anti-Cuban count will grow even smaller.

Jose A. Mora, secretary general of the OAS, opened the week-long meeting with a warning that "structures of the new world may disappear at any moment if we let forces attempting to destroy American solidarity go ahead."

He declared that the American republics "have condemned all systems tending to suppress rights and political and civilian freedoms, especially action of international communism or any totalitarianism."

Failure of the conference to agree on action against Cuba could endanger President Kennedy's ambitious $20-billion Alliance for Progress program begun last August at this same luxury resort on the Atlantic.

Congress Delay Expected

The program will face delay if not increased opposition in the U.S. Congress.

President Kennedy has been trying to convince Congress of the urgency of the program and the worth of an initial $3-billion appropriation to help the Latin-American nations build their economies as a bulwark bulwark against Communist inroads.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk hurried from one meeting to another to explain the need for firm action in this light.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Francisco San Thiago Dantas carried the ball for nations backing away from positive action.

He said there are differences among the nations on how to deal with Cuba. "But we must reach a common, unified point of view," he said.

Dantas said there were differences between Brazil and Argentina, but only on the surface.

Argentina, once thinking along the Brazilian line, has been reported edging toward a slightly stronger position.

Last Of Three W. Va. Escapes In Custody

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — The last of three prisoners who escaped from the Ohio County jail here last week was accounted for Monday afternoon when he surrendered voluntarily to police.

Robert E. McGilton, 22, of Wheeling turned himself over to local authorities but refused to tell them where he had been hiding since he and Stanley Warble, 23, of Wheeling, and Kenneth Bowman, 21, also of Wheeling, escaped from the jail last Tuesday.

Warble was killed when a car in which he and Bowman were fleeing crashed near Pt. Pleasant. Bowman is hospitalized at a Gallopolis, Ohio, hospital with injuries received in the wreck.

Integration Campaign Brings Resentfulness To Cambridge

By JOHN A. WOODFIELD
CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Racial bitterness walked the streets here Monday — the result of recent demonstrations aimed at accelerating desegregation of restaurants and lunch counters.

Mute evidence of feeling in the area is a prominently displayed sign at a restaurant on nearby U.S. 50. It reads, simply, "Yes, We Serve Niggers."

Demonstrators who descended on this Eastern Shore community of 12,200 last Saturday — some from as far away as Canada and New York — brought out an attending force of 250 state policemen to insure law and order.

As one state police officer put it, "We had to protect the townspeople from themselves." Even so, nine persons were arrested during the activity—eight of them area residents whose tempers had reached the breaking point.

A civic leader in neighboring Wicomico County maintains that the demonstrators are not really sincere in their efforts. He referred to their demand for equal accommodations in restaurants and lunch counters as "frosting on the cake — only a very minor item in the over-all picture."

The general feeling here is one of betrayal and resentfulness. Community leaders felt they were making genuine progress toward total integration until the recent demonstrations. Now, they don't know.

C. Burnham Mace, the county prosecutor, put it this way Monday: "Sensational publicity appears to be the main objective of those who came from outside Dorchester County to organize these demonstrations. It is difficult to believe that they have any real interest in the welfare of the Negro population of Cambridge."

Traditionally, this area has been aligned with the Deep South and its inhabitants noted for their independence. While the rest of Maryland has been sucked into the industrial vortex, the Shore continues much the same existence it had in pre-Revolutionary War days — farming of the land and in the waters for crabs and oysters.

Attempted changes, particularly by outsiders, are strongly resented.

Public schools supposedly are integrated through grade seven. In reality, the integration is in name only, since no Negro pupils are enrolled in white schools.

What tangible results have come from these recent demonstrations?

Four restaurants which had desegregated last November remain desegregated. But one indicated it will reverse its policy if the mass protests continue. Other restaurants are now more violently opposed to integration than they have been.

The Cambridge Volunteer Fire Company has discussed the possibility of refusing ambulance service to Negro patrons except in extreme emergency. The group has reached a decision, but Company President Dr. James Swing said he could not divulge the decision until the members had authorized him to do so.

Swing said such a course of action had been discussed many times and that many members felt recent demonstrations have been grossly unfair to the community in the light of progress Cambridge already was making in desegregation.

Integration at scholastic athletic events has virtually vanished. The Rev. William Hemphill Jr., chairman of the county's Equal Opportunities Commission, said he noticed no Negroes at the Cambridge High School basketball game last Friday night, although previous contests had attracted many Negro spectators.

Residents are reluctant to discuss the latest developments here, but on one point, all are agreed: Recent demonstrations have hurt racial relations immeasurably. To what extent is still not known.

Integrationist's Hearing Postponed

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — William V. Hansen, 22-year-old white leader of protestants to segregation, was granted a postponement Monday of a hearing on charges of trespassing.

Hansen is from Cincinnati. He was the only one of about 175 integrationists from outside Cambridge arrested Saturday in the second demonstration staged in the Eastern Shore city.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Raleigh businessman Kidd Brewer, central figure in an investigation of state highway sign procurement practices, was rushed to a hospital Monday after he was found in a building near his home with cuts on his wrist and throat.

Malcolm Seawall, former North Carolina attorney general, who was at Brewer's home, said Brewer was found by Wake County deputies.

Hospital Director Joseph Barnes relayed a statement from Dr. Isaac Manley, which said "it appeared that Brewer was over-sedated and attempted to take his life by slashing his throat and wrist." He added that Brewer's condition was very critical.

Brewer, halfback and captain of the 1931 Duke University football team, had been summoned to appear before State Revenue Commissioner W. A. Johnson Tuesday for questioning about his tax returns since 1953.

Gov. Terry Sanford announced Jan. 7 that he had fired Robert A. Burch as a state highway traffic engineer because he was "too closely associated" with Brewer, Raleigh insurance executive and onetime candidate for lieutenant governor. Burch was in charge of state highway sign procurement.

Sanford said at the time that sign companies doing business with a firm formed by Brewer had paid Brewer $80,000. The governor later raised the figure to $85,000. He said half of this had been paid to Burch's son, Robert M., a Duke University student.

The latest disclosure came last Thursday when Sanford said Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. had paid Brewer $148,000 in "a round-about manner" for acting as their agent.

$250 million in loans to states and communities.

$250 million more to be distributed among the first three categories as he saw fit.

While asserting that the nation has gone far on the prosperity road, Kennedy said continued high unemployment and poverty among millions are a "claim on our conscience."

He plugged anew for such things as medical care for the aged under Social Security, training of the jobless, and federal aid to education.

Consol Coal Plans To Acquire Midwest Firm

CHICAGO (AP)—Absorption of the Truax-Traer Coal Co., a mid-west bituminous producer, by Consolidation Coal Co., Pittsburgh, will be proposed to stockholders of both firms in April.

Announcement of the plan under which Consolidation would trade Truax-Traer stockholders its common stock for theirs on a share for share basis was made Monday by presidents of both companies.

Consolidation, which mined more than 25 million tons of coal last year, operates mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio and Tennessee. Truax-Traer produced about 5½ million tons in Illinois and North Dakota in 1961.

Controversial Novel Defended By U. Md. Prof

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A University of Maryland English professor said Monday the controversial novel "Tropic of Cancer" has literary merit.

Dr. Carl Julius Bode, testifying at a hearing on a law suit by Dist. Atty. James C. Crumlish Jr. to prevent sale of the book in Philadelphia, said the novel by Henry Miller expresses "man's self-realization partly through sexual experience."

He added the author's philosophy was the rejection by man of normal human values.

Common Pleas Judge Vincent A. Carroll last Nov. 21 issued a preliminary injunction preventing Herman Rubin, a city book dealer, from selling the novel. Monday's hearing was on a permanent injunction.

Opposing lawyers agreed the only issue for Judge Carroll to decide is whether the book is obscene under rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Grove Press of New York City, publishers of the book, intervened in the action as a co-defendant with Rubin.

Bode said the book "without question" has literary merit, and called it "a protest against many dominating American values."

Counterfeiting Ring Smashed On West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A West Coast counterfeiting ring that manufactured nearly a half million dollars in phony $20 bills, apparently in the offices of a fallout shelter sales firm, has been smashed with arrests of four men in California and Washington, the Secret Service announced Monday.

Agents seized $477,800 of the fake bills including approximately $200,000 at Reno, Nev. Another batch of $224,000 was grabbed at Oakland, Calif., apparently after a round-trip to the Midwest.

Tom H. Hanson, special agent in charge in San Francisco, estimated $20,000 in fake bills still is in circulation. He said a press and chemical apparatus used for printing the bills was found in the Sunnyside, Wash., office of the now-defunct R&B Distributing Co. a shelter firm that had headquarters in Seattle.

"Fallout" of the bills, according to Deputy Secret Service Chief Paul J. Paterni in Washington, D.C., began Dec. 1 in Seattle. Later large numbers were found in Phoenix, Ariz., Los Angeles and Sacramento, Calif.

A few bills also were picked up in Portland, Ore., Detroit, Mich., and Springfield, Ill., but Paterni said this was incidental and apparently not part of the group's distribution plan.

He said also that there was no connection between the coast seizures and fake $20 bills that appeared in New York last year.

Snowslide Victim Hunted

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (UPI)—Rescuers sifted tons of snow and rubble Monday in search of the body of Mike Adamich, 7, last of seven victims of a gigantic avalanche that roared down Colorado's highest mountain before dawn Sunday.

Mike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Adamich Sr., were found alive by astounded rescuers more than two hours after the slide collapsed off 14,431-foot Mt. Elbert and smashed their home and three others.

But his brother, William Jr., 9, and the five members of the neighboring General Shelton family were dead when they were located.

The search for Mike's body could not be resumed Monday until fears of a new slide in the same area were allayed.

Colorado Highway Department crews, after one unsuccessful try, were able to shoot down the potential second avalanche with blasts from a 75-MM howitzer cannon. More snow threatened to slip, but apparently did not endanger the rescue operation.

Arrow Removed From Zoo's Elk

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Rochester Humane Society has offered a $200 reward for information leading to arrest of the person who shot a steel-tipped arrow into Duke, a 400-pound elk, at the Seneca Park Zoo.

The arrow was found Saturday embedded seven inches in Duke's shoulder. Veterinarians removed the arrow and are hopeful of saving Duke from permanent disability.

Marine Seized In Bank Holdup

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A 19-year-old Marine Corps private was arrested by the FBI Monday on a charge of robbing a branch of the Union National Bank in Pittsburgh, Pa., of $29,910 Wednesday.

Pvt. Joseph Andrew Smith Hayes, 19, formerly of Pittsburgh was booked at county jail on the federal charge. An accomplice, not yet identified, was being sought.

Hayes married a 17-year-old girl in Pittsburgh the morning of the robbery, Thomas E. Bishop, FBI agent in charge, said. They left Pittsburgh the day after the robbery.

The young Marine was being transferred from Camp Lejeune, N.C., to Camp Pendleton. He was arrested in a hotel room at Ocean-side, outside the camp. He told jail officials that his bride was staying in a Los Angeles apartment.

Bishop said that $28,495 of the stolen money had been recovered by the FBI in Pittsburgh and $305 from Hayes' oceanside hotel room.

Telephone saves Myers family $19.40... helps keep Little League team on the ball

The Myers' son, Hudson, calls a Little League teammate to let him know the time to meet for practice.

We recently asked Mrs. H. Hudson Myers, Jr., of Lutherville, to keep a two-week "telephone diary" of her family's telephone calls. Our reason: to find out how much time, money and travel the telephone saves them.

At the end of two weeks, the totals in Mrs. Myers' diary showed their telephone saved 20 valuable hours, 210 miles of travel and $19.40.

The Myers' ten-year-old son, Hudson, found the phone pretty handy, too. He arranges the practice sessions for his Little League baseball team—a sound job that would take hours without the tele-

What would a telephone diary show in your home? You'd probably find, too, that your telephone does far more for you... than the small amount it costs.

William Hemphill Jr., chairman of the county's Equal Opportunities Commission, said he noticed no Negroes at the Cambridge High School basketball game last Friday night, although previous contests had attracted many Negro spectators.

Residents are reluctant to discuss the latest developments here, but on one point, all are agreed: Recent demonstrations have hurt racial relations immeasurably. To what extent is still not known.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEREETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. Integrationist's Hearing Postponed

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — William V. Hansen, 22-year-old white leader of protestants to segregation, was granted a postponement Monday of a hearing on charges of trespassing.

Hansen is from Cincinnati. He was the only one of about 175 integrationists from outside Cambridge arrested Saturday in the second demonstration staged in the Eastern Shore city.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Raleigh businessman Kidd Brewer, central figure in an investigation of state highway sign procurement practices, was rushed to a hospital Monday after he was found in a building near his home with cuts on his wrist and throat.

Malcolm Seawall, former North Carolina attorney general, who was at Brewer's home, said Brewer was found by Wake County deputies.

Hospital Director Joseph Barnes relayed a statement from Dr. Isaac Manley, which said "it appeared that Brewer was over-sedated and attempted to take his life by slashing his throat and wrist." He added that Brewer's condition was very critical.

Brewer, halfback and captain of the 1931 Duke University football team, had been summoned to appear before State Revenue Commissioner W. A. Johnson Tuesday for questioning about his tax returns since 1953.

Gov. Terry Sanford announced Jan. 7 that he had fired Robert A. Burch as a state highway traffic engineer because he was "too closely associated" with Brewer, Raleigh insurance executive and onetime candidate for lieutenant governor. Burch was in charge of state highway sign procurement.

Sanford said at the time that sign companies doing business with a firm formed by Brewer had paid Brewer $80,000. The governor later raised the figure to $85,000. He said half of this had been paid to Burch's son, Robert M., a Duke University student.

The latest disclosure came last Thursday when Sanford said Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. had paid Brewer $148,000 in "a round-about manner" for acting as their agent.

previously authorized by Congress including federal buildings, reforestation or reseeding of range lands.

$750 million in grants to states and communities for such things as hospitals, airports, schools, sewers, street repairs.

$250 million in loans to states and communities.

$250 million more to be distributed among the first three categories as he saw fit.

While asserting that the nation has gone far on the prosperity road, Kennedy said continued high unemployment and poverty among millions are a "claim on our conscience."

He plugged anew for such things as medical care for the aged under Social Security, training of the jobless, and federal aid to education.

Consol Coal Plans To Acquire Midwest Firm

CHICAGO (AP)—Absorption of the Truax-Traer Coal Co., a mid-west bituminous producer, by Consolidation Coal Co., Pittsburgh, will be proposed to stockholders of both firms in April.

Announcement of the plan under which Consolidation would trade Truax-Traer stockholders its common stock for theirs on a share for share basis was made Monday by presidents of both companies.

Consolidation, which mined more than 25 million tons of coal last year, operates mines in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio and Tennessee. Truax-Traer produced about 5 1/2 million tons in Illinois and North Dakota in 1961.

Counterfeiting Ring Smashed On West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A West Coast counterfeiting ring that manufactured nearly a half million dollars in phony $20 bills, apparently in the offices of a fallout shelter sales firm, has been smashed with arrests of four men in California and Washington, the Secret Service announced Monday.

Agents seized $477,000 of the fake bills including approximately $200,000 at Reno, Nev. Another batch of $224,000 was grabbed at Oakland, Calif., apparently after a round-trip to the Midwest.

Tom H. Hanson, special agent in charge in San Francisco, estimated $20,000 in fake bills still in circulation. He said a press and chemical apparatus used for printing the bills was found in the Sunnyside, Wash., office of the now-defunct R&B Distributing Co. a shelter firm that had headquarters in Seattle.

"Fallout" of the bills, according to Deputy Secret Service Chief Paul J. Paterni in Washington, D.C., began Dec. 1 in Seattle. Later large numbers were found in Phoenix, Ariz., Los Angeles and Sacramento, Calif.

A few bills also were picked up in Portland, Ore., Detroit, Mich. and Springfield, Ill., but Paterni said this was incidental and apparently not part of the group's distribution plan.

He said also that there was no connection between the coast seizures and fake $20 bills that appeared in New York last year.

Snowslide Victim Hunted

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (UPI)—Rescuers sifted tons of snow and rubble Monday in search of the body of Mike Adamich, 7, last of seven victims of a gigantic avalanche that roared down Colorado's highest mountain before dawn Sunday.

Mike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Adamich Sr., were found alive by astounded rescuers more than two hours after the slide collapsed off 14,431-foot Mt. Elbert and smashed their home and three others.

But his brother, William Jr., 9, and the five members of the neighboring General Shelton family were dead when they were located.

The search for Mike's body could not be resumed Monday until fears of a new slide in the same area were allayed.

Colorado Highway Department crews, after one unsuccessful try, were able to shoot down the potential second avalanche with blasts from a 75-MM howitzer cannon. More snow threatened to slip, but apparently did not endanger the rescue operation.

Hayes married a 17-year-old girl in Pittsburgh the morning of the robbery. Thomas E. Bishop, FBI agent in charge, said. They left Pittsburgh the day after the robbery.

The young Marine was being transferred from Camp Lejeune, N.C., to Camp Pendleton. He was arrested in a hotel room at Ocean-side, outside the camp. He told jail officials that his bride was staying in a Los Angeles apartment.

Bishop said that $28,495 of the stolen money had been recovered by the FBI in Pittsburgh and $305 from Hayes' oceanside hotel room.

Marine Seized In Bank Holdup

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A 19-year-old Marine Corps private was arrested by the FBI Monday on a charge of robbing a branch of the Union National Bank in Pittsburgh, Pa., of $29,910 Wednesday.

Pvt. Joseph Andrew Smith Hayes, 19, formerly of Pittsburgh was booked at county jail on the federal charge. An accomplice, not yet identified, was being sought.

Arrow Removed From Zoo's Elk

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Rochester Humane Society has offered a $200 reward for information leading to arrest of the person who shot a steel-tipped arrow into Duke, a 400-pound elk, at the Seneca Park Zoo.

The arrow was found Saturday embedded seven inches in Duke's shoulder. Veterinarians removed the arrow and are hopeful of saving Duke from permanent disability.

Controversial Novel Defended By U. Md. Prof

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A University of Maryland English professor said Monday the controversial novel "Tropic of Cancer" has literary merit.

Dr. Carl Julius Bode, testifying at a hearing on a law suit by Dist. Atty. James C. Crumlish Jr. to prevent sale of the book in Philadelphia, said the novel by Henry Miller expresses "man's self-realization partly through sexual experience."

He added the author's philosophy was the rejection by man of normal human values.

Common Pleas Judge Vincent A. Carroll last Nov. 21 issued a preliminary injunction preventing Herman Robin, a city book dealer, from selling the novel. Monday's hearing was on a permanent injunction.

Opposing lawyers agreed the only issue for Judge Carroll to decide is whether the book is obscene under rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Grove Press of New York City, publishers of the book, intervened in the action as a co-defendant with Robin.

Bode said the book "without question" has literary merit, and called it "a protest against many dominating American values."

Telephone saves Myers family $1940... helps keep Little League team on the ball

We recently asked Mrs. H. Hudson Myers, Jr., of Lutherville, to keep a two-week "telephone diary" of her family's telephone calls. Our reason: to find out how much time, money and travel the telephone saves them.

At the end of two weeks, the totals in Mrs. Myers' diary showed their telephone saved 20 valuable hours, 210 miles of travel and $19.40.

The Myers' ten-year-old son, Hudson, found the phone pretty handy, too. He arranges the practice sessions for his Little League baseball team—a roundup job that would take hours without the telephone. He's a big telephone fan.

What would a telephone diary show in your home? You'd probably find, too, that your telephone does far more for you... than the small amount it costs.

Publicizing Of LaVale Sewer Plan Is Being Urged

The Mayor and Council was urged yesterday to publicize as much as possible any arrangements or conferences between the city and LaVale in regard to sewage treatment facilities.

The statement was made by George O. Holiar, who with C. Glenn Watson Jr., president, appeared as representatives of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association.

"Many people do not believe in giving sewage facilities to LaVale short of annexation," he said.

He said council should give as much publicity as possible to its meetings on the subject so the people will be acquainted with the possible solutions.

The LaVale Sanitary Commission has requested joint use of the city's sewage treatment plant.

The city has promised an early reply on the request and is reported about ready to ask for a meeting to suggest at least one solution. However, there was no official comment on what that will be.

Following the meeting between city, LaVale and State Health Department officials a week ago, James R. McComas, chief of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the state department, said LaVale has two alternatives: (1) To connect to Cumberland's plant; or (2) to build its own treatment facilities.

WALTER C. CAPPER

Capper Service Set Wednesday

A service for former Chief Judge Walter C. Capper, 77, of 502 Washington Street, who died Sunday night, will be conducted at the Stein Funeral Home Wednesday at 11 a. m. Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will officiate and interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Judge Capper, a veteran Allegheny County attorney, was a former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, and had practiced law in Allegheny County since 1906.

Judge Capper was born January 5, 1885 near Winchester, Va., on a farm purchased by his ancestor, Jonathan Capper, from Lord Fairfax. His parents were Charles M. Capper, also a native of Virginia's Frederick County, and a brick and stone contractor, and Mary C. (Fletcher) Capper.

He received his early education in the public schools of Tucker County, W. Va., followed by a course at the Teachers' Training School in the same county.

For two years following his graduation he taught in the schools he had attended and then came to Maryland where he was graduated from the Central Commercial College of Cumberland in 1903.

In 1906, Judge Capper received his bachelor of laws degree at the Baltimore Law School, now the University of Maryland School of Law.

Judge Capper began the practice of law in Cumberland in September of 1906 when he became associated with the late Benjamin A. Richmond. From 1911 until 1915 and again from 1939 until 1942 he served as attorney for the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners.

Judge Capper from 1942 until 1944 was acting general counsel for the Western Maryland Railway Company and on April 14, 1944 he was appointed chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland and a member of the Court of Appeals of Maryland by former Governor Herber R. O'Connor, which judgeship was terminated by a Constitutional Amendment which reduced the Court of Appeals from eight to five members on January 1, 1945.

Judge Capper was then appointed an associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and served until November of 1946.

At the time of his death he was counsel in Allegheny County for the Western Maryland Railway Company, general counsel and vice president and a director of the First National Bank of Cumberland. He was generally considered one of the most able trial lawyers to practice in this county for many years.

Other positions which Judge Capper held during his long career include chairman of the Allegheny County Liquor Control Board, member of the Land Laws Commission, member of the Maryland Tax Revision Commission, the "Bond Commission", which was formed in 1941 to study the Judiciary Article of the State Constitution.

In 1942, Judge Capper served as chairman of the Cumberland Community Chest drive and in 1941 served as president of the Maryland State Bar Association.

He was a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association, American Bar Association, the American Law Institute, Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, and the Cumberland Country Club.

Active in the Republican Party of Allegheny County and the State of Maryland, Judge Capper was married July 5, 1911 to the former Eleanor H. Cook of Cumberland. Judge Capper was the senior member of the Capper-Jenkins-Berry Law Firm, 10 Greene Street.

Besides his widow, Judge Capper is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edgar J. Dawson Jr., West Palm Beach, Fla.

He was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Service Wednesday For Mrs. Miller

A service for Mrs. Florence Elizabeth Miller, 86, of Hyndman, Pa., who died yesterday in Memorial Hospital from injuries received in a highway accident Friday, will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Zeigler Funeral Home, Hyndman. Rev. Willard White, pastor of Hyndman Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Hyndman Cemetery.

Mrs. Miller suffered lacerations of the scalp and forehead when she was thrown from a car, operated by her son-in-law, James Hite, 56, also of Hyndman, after it collided with a semi-trailer on Pennsylvania State Route 96 near Madley.

Born June 5, 1875, in Hyndman, Mrs. Miller was a daughter of the late Charles and Eveline (Welch) Shaffer, and widow of Clarence V. Miller.

Burial will take place today in Torrance.

Publicizing Of LaVale Sewer Plan Is Being Urged

The Mayor and Council was urged yesterday to publicize as much as possible any arrangements or conferences between the city and LaVale in regard to sewage treatment facilities.

The statement was made by George O. Hollar, who with C. Glenn Watson Jr., president, appeared as representatives of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association.

"Many people do not believe in giving sewage facilities to LaVale short of annexation," he said.

He said council should give as much publicity as possible to its meetings on the subject so the people will be acquainted with the possible solutions.

The LaVale Sanitary Commission has requested joint use of the city's sewage treatment plant.

The city has promised an early reply on the request and is reported about ready to ask for a meeting to suggest at least one solution. However, there was no official comment on what that will be.

Following the meeting between city, LaVale and State Health Department officials a week ago, James R. McComas, chief of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the state department, said LaVale has two alternatives: (1) To connect to Cumberland's plant; or (2) to build its own treatment facilities.

Mrs. Erma Burkett, worthy matron; Richard Close, worthy patron; Mrs. Ruth Klingler, associate matron and Rex Swisher, associate patron, were hosts for the evening.

Others present were Miss Besie Baird, Mrs. Verona Bittner, Mrs. Nina Close, Mrs. Martha Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Earl, Mrs. Louise Emerick, Mrs. Edie Evans, Mrs. Edna Nixon, Mrs. Margaret Holler, Mrs. Thelma Kaylor, Mrs. Marie Keefeauver, Mrs. Mildred Kline, Wilbur Klingler, Mrs. Elizabeth Landis, Roy Maphis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McElfish, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Morton, Mrs. Harriet Roby, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Utterback and a special guest, Mrs. Pauline Grosh.

Friends who come to "meet" a new baby should not be insulted if asked to wash their hands with soap before fondling the child.

This advice comes from a noted doctor—because cleanliness must be practiced from the moment baby and mother arrive home from the hospital.

When you re-do the kitchen, shop first for machine-washability—because fabrics constantly exposed to cooking fumes must be laundered often.

LIVING ON VELVET... by G.B.

"George had such fun painting the living room with Gold Bond Velvet, now he wants to paint everything in the house."

Don't laugh! Velvet is the easiest paint you've ever used. It goes on quickly, covers smoothly without leaving roller marks or streaks, dries in minutes. No wonder everyone wants to paint their walls with Velvet.

Society Selects Projects

Projects were discussed and selected at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Emmanuel Methodist Church, held in the church social hall.

The society will sponsor a fund for Bob Gnegy, who is a missionary. A new study course will be presented during the Lenten season. A song festival also is being planned for the latter part of February.

A ceremony for receiving new members into the society was held. Those received are Mrs. William Crawford, Mrs. Dolores Riggelman and Mrs. Richard Staples.

Brief reports of their work were given by the various secretaries. Following the business session a member of Alcoholics Anonymous was presented. At the conclusion of the program a social hour was held, at which time "diplomat's lemon tea" a non-alcoholic beverage recommended by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, was served.

Others attending were Mrs. James Cross, Mrs. Adam Frost, Mrs. Howard Frost, Mrs. Howard Fisher, Miss Wanda Gerard, Mrs. Annie Johnston, Mrs. William Kreiger, Mrs. Melvin Lipscomb, Mrs. Ada Parker, Mrs. Dora Richards, Mrs. Clyde Schram, Mrs. Ernest Shantholtzer, Mrs. Helen Whetzel, Mrs. John Whistner, Rev. and Mrs. H. R. McClay Sr.

North Cumberland Homemakers will meet at 1:15 Thursday at Fairview Avenue Church, at which time chairmen will be announced.

Miss Pamela Painter, speech therapist of the Allegheny County League for Crippled Children, will speak at the meeting of St. Patrick's Mothers' Club tonight. It will be held at 7:45 in the social center.

Mrs. Glotfelty Elected To State Farm Group

Mrs. Roy Shryock Sr., president of Allegheny County Associated Women of the Farm Bureau; Mrs. Edward Matthews, vice president; and Mrs. Charles Harvey, county director, attended the 46th annual convention of the Associated Women of Maryland Farm Bureau last weekend in Baltimore. Mrs. James Bigelow, Chestertown, was elected president; and Mrs. Orville Glotfelty, Accident, vice president, to serve a two-year term.

Marking Farmers' Week in Maryland, all phases of farming were represented at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Sheraton-Baltimore Inn and Emerson Hotel. Farm Bureau Day was observed Friday, C. E. Wise Jr., executive secretary, warned that the need for strong organization and capable, informed leaders is greater now in the field of agriculture than ever before. "Today agriculture is a completely mechanized business, aided by many new chemicals and antibiotics," he also reported farms in the state have dropped from 47,000 to 25,000.

Among the resolutions passed was one in opposition to federal aid for education; another dealt with the Potomac River Valley development, favoring construction of a series of dams for agricultural conservation, recreation and development; a resolution opposing the use of the name "Farmers' Market" for establishments which do not have bona fide farmers located in stalls selling their produce. Any increase in the rate or extension in the coverage of the minimum wage law was opposed. Also included in the resolutions was a stipulation that additional legislation be passed to curb littering farmers' roadside premises.

Phyllis Watkins, Maryland Farm Queen, spoke. At the Associated Young People's meeting J. B. Thayne, assistant legislative director, warned that steps which are leading them toward a loss of freedom include federal agricultural supply control programs, a deficit budget and a centralized government with an attitude of "what can I do for you?"

The county delegates will report at the meeting of the Associated Women, which will be held January 30 at 1 p.m. in Lazarus fountain room. Chairman appointed are clothing, publicity, historian, Mrs. Edward Lewis family life, Mrs. William Brown; food and nutrition, Mrs. William Murphy and Mrs. Denstock; health, Mrs. Trubador Lewis; home furnishing, recreation, nature, Mrs. Lester McGill; home management, music, Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis; safety, Mrs. Cominhan; art, Mrs. Arthur Ferguson; home and yard beautification, Mrs. John Thompson; international relations, Mrs. Thomas Beachy; reading, Mrs. Denstock, Mrs. A. G. Shank; citizenship, civil defense, parliamentary, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell; community service, Mrs. Borror; fair and exhibits, Mrs. P. F. Leasure, Mrs. W. A. Judy; membership, Mrs. Shank; RWSC, Mrs. Harold Lewis; sunshine, Mrs. Murphy and 4-H representative, Mrs. A. D. Lechlitter.

Potomac Sisterhood 284, Dames of Malta, will meet at 8 tonight in Malta hall. Officers will practice for the visitation March 13.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Tomsko, LaVale Court, have returned from Horsham, Pa., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Clara F. Soliday, sister of Mrs. Tomsko. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Tomsko and Albert T. Tomsko Jr.

Sgt. Garland H. Helmick, who has been stationed in Japan, for the past three years, is spending a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Helmick, 1008 Oldtown Road.

Mrs. Ralph Simmons, 220 Harrison Street, is a surgical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

The Ladies Shrine Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Masonic temple. Cards will follow the meeting.

Homemaker Training Meeting

The all-day training meeting of Allegheny County Homemaker officers and county chairmen will be held today at Bowling Green fire hall.

Mrs. Adam Baer, new president of the county group and Mrs. Edward Shaffer, new treasurer, will assume their duties at the executive board meeting; which will be held at 10:30 a.m.

Besides a general organizational meeting, plans for the spring and summer activities will be formulated.

Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent and Mrs. Evelyn Whitehouse, assistant home demonstration agent leader from the University of Maryland, will conduct the training session.

Program books, song sheets and material to be used during the year are to be distributed. Members are to bring a box lunch. Hot coffee will be available at the fire hall.

Cresap Homemakers To Mark Anniversary

The Cresap Homemakers Club installed Mrs. Hubert Martz and Mrs. William Brown, president and treasurer, at the meeting at the home of Mrs. D. A. Denstock. Mrs. Arlie Borror conducted the ceremony. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Edith Conihhan presented a gift to Mrs. William Murphy, retiring president.

Plans were made for a covered dish luncheon January 25 to mark the club's 35th anniversary.

Chairmen appointed are clothing, publicity, historian, Mrs. Edward Lewis family life, Mrs. William Brown; food and nutrition, Mrs. William Murphy and Mrs. Denstock; health, Mrs. Trubador Lewis; home furnishing, recreation, nature, Mrs. Lester McGill; home management, music, Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis; safety, Mrs. Cominhan; art, Mrs. Arthur Ferguson; home and yard beautification, Mrs. John Thompson; international relations, Mrs. Thomas Beachy; reading, Mrs. Denstock, Mrs. A. G. Shank; citizenship, civil defense, parliamentary, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell; community service, Mrs. Borror; fair and exhibits, Mrs. P. F. Leasure, Mrs. W. A. Judy; membership, Mrs. Shank; RWSC, Mrs. Harold Lewis; sunshine, Mrs. Murphy and 4-H representative, Mrs. A. D. Lechlitter.

Potomac Sisterhood 284, Dames of Malta, will meet at 8 tonight in Malta hall. Officers will practice for the visitation March 13.

District 1 Nurses To Elect Officers

Miss Jeanne Dauphin will preside at the bi-monthly meeting of the District 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, which will be held tomorrow evening. It will be in Memorial Hospital nurses' home, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The main business will be election of officers and installation. Also there will be a few reports by the standing committees. No program is planned. Arrangements for the annual May dinner are to be discussed at the March meeting.

Concluding the meeting an informal social hour will be held and refreshments will be served.

Protect Children From Home Mishaps

A slip on the steps, a swallow of furniture polish, a second-degree burn, a jagged scissor cut—protect your children from these serious and sometimes fatal mishaps in the home.

Check your home for these safeguards against falls: gates at tops of stairs, stairs free of clutter, strong railings along stairways, floor coverings fastened securely, barred or screened windows.

Are you preventing cuts? knives and scissors kept out of reach, children not permitted to run with scissors, children kept away from dangerous home equipment, safe toys.

Are your children protected against burns? Scalding water kept out of reach, matches kept out of reach, open fires screened, fire escapes provided—do children know how to use them? electrical cords in good repair, unused outlets covered or locked.

Provide these safeguards against poisoning: poisons kept in locked medicine cabinets, cleaning fluids, polishes, bleaches and detergents kept out of reach.

By observing these safeguards, your home will be safer for baby and everyone, says Joanne Reitz, Extension home management specialist, University of Maryland, and former Allegheny County Home Demonstration Agent.

Skating Closed

1957 Class Sets Date For Reunion

June 30 has been selected as the date of the five-year reunion of Fort Hill High School class of 1957.

It is to be held in the form of a dinner and dance. It will be semi-formal and will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Questionnaires will be sent out the first part of February. Mrs. Patricia Harper Rudolph, Mrs. Naomi Lamp Oliver, Mrs. Jean Shipley, Mrs. Wanda Robinson Hawkins are in charge of the addresses committee.

The questionnaires committee consists of Mrs. Rosalie Pfeiffer Ruckman, Mrs. Mary Ann Sommerkamp Somers.

Larry Hopcraft is in charge of arranging for an orchestra. The program committee includes Mrs. Rudolph, James Shank and Mr. Hopcraft.

A scrapbook will be compiled by Mrs. Ruckman; dinner arrangements, Mrs. Rudolph; gifts, Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. Shipley. Mrs. Janis Robertson Hammersmith and Mrs. Barbara Valentine Welshare in charge of publicity.

How Women Can Lose 2 to 7 lbs. Of Bloating 'Water-Weight' During the Pre-Menstrual Week

New Medical Discovery Tested By Nurses on Themselves Also Relieves Swelling, Pelvic Pressure, Pain and Accompanying Moodiness, Nervous Tension In A Way No Aspirin or Pain Reliever Possibly Can.

New York, N. Y.: Doctors who are specialists in women's ailments have now discovered that several days before a woman's period her system often stores up an abnormal accumulation of water—from 2 to 7 lbs. This causes body tissues to swell and results in a sudden gain of weight and abdominal puffiness. It also causes breast soreness, headache, depression, nervous tension and irritability. Having discovered this cause of women's suffering, science has developed astonishing medical help with a new tablet called Trender.

Trender first helps rid the system of harmful excess water and induces a prompt loss of bloating weight. It relieves headache, cramps and accompanying nervous tension, irritability, depression, both before and during periods—in a way no pain reliever alone possibly can. Trender Tablets have been thoroughly tested by hundreds of Registered Nurses on themselves. Proven safe and effective, when taken as directed. Every woman troubled this way should try Trender at once. Now obtainable without prescription at any drug counter.

Plans to continue the cookie sale were formulated at the last meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Ann McKenzie, Karns Avenue. Proceeds from the sale will be used for an Easter basket for the family the chapter assists.

Reports included saving bonds presented to the children of a deceased member, and of Christmas gifts sent to them. Proceeds from a rummage sale were used for the Christmas basket for the chapter's family, as well as giving used clothing.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Betty Foster. Her topic was civic responsibilities as citizens of the city, county and nation. She pointed out how important it is to register and vote. She presented information on how various officers are selected by the different boards of the county or state. Mrs. Foster emphasized the fact that if the members hope to do anything, they must work together as a group, not as individuals, for she said it is only through a group that anything can be accomplished.

The invocation was by Mrs. Maude Heishman. Names for secret pals were selected. Prizes were won by Mrs. Heishman, Mrs. Helen Swisher, Mrs. Margaret Hixson and Mrs. Mary Stinebaugh. Mrs. E. M. Burkett, worthy matron; Richard Close, worthy patron; Mrs. Ruth Klingler, associate matron and Rex Swisher, associate patron, were hosts for the evening.

Others present were Miss Besie Baird, Mrs. Verona Bittner, Mrs. Nina Close, Mrs. Martha Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Earl, Mrs. Louise Emerick, Mrs. Erdie Evans, Mrs. Edna Nixon, Mrs. Margaret Holler, Mrs. Thelma Kaylor, Mrs. Marie Keefeauver, Mrs. Mildred Kline, Wilbur Klingler, Mrs. Elizabeth Lamp, Mrs. Elizabeth Landis, Roy Maphis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McElfish, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Morton, Mrs. Harriet Roby, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Utterback and a special guest, Mrs. Pauline Grosh.

Friends who come to "meet" a new baby should not be insulted if asked to wash their hands with soap before fondling the child.

This advice comes from a noted doctor—because cleanliness must be practiced from the moment baby and mother arrive home from the hospital.

When you re-do the kitchen, shop first for machine-washability—because fabrics constantly exposed to cooking fumes must be laundered often.

LIVING ON VELVET... by G.B.

"George had such fun painting the living room with Gold Bond Velvet, now he wants to paint everything in the house."

You've loved Velvet is the easiest paint you've ever used. It goes on quickly, covers smoothly without leaving roller marks or streaks, dries in minutes. No wonder everyone wants to paint their walls with Velvet.

Society Selects Projects

Projects were discussed and selected at the meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Emmanuel Methodist Church, held in the church social hall.

The society will sponsor a fund for Bob Gnegy, who is a missionary. A new study course will be presented during the Lenten season. A song festival also is being planned for the latter part of February.

A ceremony for receiving new members into the society was held. Those received are Mrs. William Crawford, Mrs. Dolores Riggelman and Mrs. Richard Staples.

Brief reports of their work were given by the various secretaries. Following the business session a member of Alcoholics Anonymous was presented. At the conclusion of the program a social hour was held, at which time "diplomat's lemon tea" a non-alcoholic beverage recommended by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, was served.

Others attending were Mrs. James Cross, Mrs. Adam Frost, Mrs. Howard Frost, Mrs. Howard Fisher, Miss Wanda Gerard, Mrs. Annie Johnston, Mrs. William Kreiger, Mrs. Melven Lipscomb, Mrs. Ada Parker, Mrs. Dora Richards, Mrs. Clyde Schram, Mrs. Ernest Shanholzer, Mrs. Helen Whetzel, Mrs. John Whisner, Rev. and Mrs. H. R. McClay Sr.

North Cumberland Homemakers will meet at 1:15 Thursday at Fairview Avenue Church, at which time chairmen will be announced.

Miss Pamela Painter, speech therapist of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, will speak at the meeting of St. Patrick's Mothers' Club tonight. It will be held at 7:45 in the social center.

Mrs. Glotfelty Elected To State Farm Group

Mrs. Roy Shryock Sr., president of Allegany County Associated Women of the Farm Bureau; Mrs. Edward Matthews, vice president; and Mrs. Charles Harvey, county director; attended the 46th annual convention of the Associated Women of Maryland Farm Bureau last weekend in Baltimore. Mrs. James Bigelow, Chestertown, was elected president; and Mrs. Orville Glotfelty, Accident, vice president, to serve a two-year term.

Marking Farmers' Week in Maryland, all phases of farming were represented at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Sheraton-Baltimore Inn and Emerson Hotel. Farm Bureau Day was observed Friday. C. E. Wise Jr., executive secretary, warned that the need for strong organization and capable, informed leaders is greater now in the field of agriculture than ever before. "Today agriculture is a completely mechanized business, aided by many new chemicals and antibiotics," he also reported farms in the state have dropped from 47,000 to 25,000.

Among the resolutions passed was one in opposition to federal aid for education; another dealt with the Potomac River valley development, favoring construction of a series of dams for agricultural conservation, recreation and development; a resolution opposing the use of the name "Farmers' Market" for establishments which do not have bona fide farmers located in stalls selling their produce. Any increase in the rate or extension in the coverage of the minimum wage law was opposed. Also included in the resolutions was a stipulation that additional legislation be passed to curb littering farmers' roadside premises.

Phyllis Watkins, Maryland Farm Queen, spoke. At the Associated Young People's meeting J. B. Thayne, assistant legislative director, warned that steps which are leading them toward a loss of freedom include federal agricultural supply control programs, a deficit budget and a centralized government with an attitude of "what can I do for you?"

The county delegates will report at the meeting of the Associated Women, which will be held January 30 at 1 p.m. in Lazarus fountain room.

Chairmen appointed are clothing, publicity, historian, Mrs. Edward Lewis family life, Mrs. William Brown; food and nutrition, Mrs. William Murphy and Mrs. Densock; health, Mrs. Trubador Lewis; home furnishing, recreation, nature, Mrs. Lester McGill; home management, music, Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis; safety, Mrs. Counihan; art, Mrs. Arthur Ferguson; home and yard beautification, Mrs. John Thompson; international relations, Mrs. Thomas Beachy; reading, Mrs. Densock; Mrs. A. G. Shank; citizenship, civil defense, parliamentary, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell; community service, Mrs. Borror; fair and exhibits, Mrs. P. F. Leisure, Mrs. W. A. Judy; membership, Mrs. Shank; RWSC, Mrs. Harold Lewis; sunshine, Mrs. Murphy and 4-H representative, Mrs. A. D. Lechliter.

Potomac Sisterhood 384, Dames of Malta, will meet at 8 tonight in Malta hall. Officers will practice for the visitation March 13.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Tomsko, LaVale Court, have returned from Horsham, Pa., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Clara F. Soliday, sister of Mrs. Tomsko. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Tomsko and Albert T. Tomsko Jr.

Sgt. Garland H. Helmick, who has been stationed in Japan, for the past three years, is spending a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Helmick, 1008 Oldtown Road.

Mrs. Ralph Simmons, 220 Harrison Street, is a surgical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

The Ladies Shrine Club will meet at 8 tonight at the Masonic temple. Cards will follow the meeting.

How Women Can Lose 2 to 7 lbs. Of Bloating 'Water-Weight' During the Pre-Menstrual Week

New Medical Discovery Tested By Nurses on Themselves Also Relieves Swelling, Pelvic Pressure, Pain and Accompanying Moodiness, Nervous Tension In a Way No Aspirin or Pain Reliever Possibly Can.

New York, N. Y.: Doctors who are specialists in women's ailments have now discovered that several days before a woman's period her system often stores up an abnormal accumulation of water—from 2 to 7 lbs. This causes body tissues to swell and results in a sudden gain of weight and abdominal puffiness. It also causes breast soreness, headache, depression, nervous tension and irritability. Having discovered this cause of woman's suffering, science has developed astonishing medical help with a new tablet called 'Trendar'.

Trendar first helps rid the system of harmful excess water and induces a prompt loss of bloating weight. It relieves headache, cramps and accompanying nervous tension, irritability, depression, both before and during periods—in a way no pain reliever alone possibly can. Trendar Tablets have been thoroughly tested by hundreds of Registered Nurses on themselves. Proven safe and effective, when taken as directed. Every woman troubled this way should try Trendar at once. Now obtainable without prescription at any drug counter.

District 1 Nurses To Elect Officers

Miss Jeanne Dauphin will preside at the bi-monthly meeting of the District 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, which will be held tomorrow evening. It will be in Memorial Hospital nurses' home, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The main business will be election of officers and installation. Also there will be a few reports by the standing committees. No program is planned. Arrangements for the annual May dinner are to be discussed at the March meeting.

Concluding the meeting an informal social hour will be held and refreshments will be served.

Protect Children From Home Mishaps

A slip on the steps, a swallow of furniture polish, a second-degree burn, a jagged scissor cut—protect your children from these serious and sometimes fatal mishaps in the home.

Check your home for these safeguards against falls: gates at tops of stairs, stairs free of clutter, strong railings along stairways, floor coverings fastened securely, barred or screened windows.

Are you preventing cuts? knives and scissors kept out of reach, children not permitted to run with scissors, children kept away from dangerous home equipment, safe toys.

Are your children protected against burns? Scalding water kept out of reach, matches kept out of reach, open fires screened, fire escapes provided—do children know how to use them? electrical cords in good repair, unused outlets covered or locked.

Provide these safeguards against poisoning: poisons kept in locked medicine cabinets, cleaning fluids, polishes, bleaches and detergents kept out of reach.

By observing these safeguards, your home will be safer for baby and everyone, says Joanne Reitz, Extension home management specialist, University of Maryland, and former Allegany County Home Demonstration Agent.

Skating Closed

1957 Class Sets Date For Reunion

June 30 has been selected as the date of the five-year reunion of Fort Hill High School class of 1957.

It is to be held in the form of a dinner and dance. It will be semi-formal and will be held at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Questionnaires will be sent out the first part of February. The questionnaires committee consists of Mrs. Rosalie Pfeiffer Ruckman, Mrs. Mary Ann Sommerkamp Somers.

Larry Hopcraft is in charge of arranging for an orchestra. The program committee includes Mrs. Rudolph, James Shank and Mr. Hopcraft.

A scrapbook will be compiled by Mrs. Ruckman; dinner arrangements, Mrs. Rudolph; gifts, Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. Shipley. Mrs. Janis Robertson Hammersmith and Mrs. Barbara Valentine Welsh are in charge of publicity.

Past Councilors Club of Pride of Allegany Council 110, Daughters of America will meet at 8 tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Edith Emerick, 213 North Mechanic Street.

New State Road Jobs Started In 1961

Over eight and one-half miles of new highway projects were started during 1961 in Allegany and Garrett counties by the State Roads Commission, John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer, reported.

The road and project work covering a total of 8,578 miles involves an expenditure of $3,105,791.84.

Bushby previously reported that during 1961, a total of 10,976 miles of new highway was completed at an outlay of $3,951,131.30.

Route 40 work took up the lion's share of the projects undertaken last year, Bushby pointed out.

One contract covers 3,389 miles from near the top of Polish Mountain and extends easterly to Fifteen-Mile Creek.

The contractor, the S. J. Grove and Sons Company, Camp Hill, Pa., has finished 33 per cent of the work which the firm undertook for $863,959.90 on July 13.

On June 22, another Route 40 project, construction of a portion beginning at Sideling Hill Creek and extending westerly toward Town Hill, was under taken by the George F. Hazelwood Company.

This project covering 2,287 miles at a cost of $812,656.60 is 40 per cent completed, Bushby said.

A portion of the east approach to the Cumberland Thruway on Route 40 and also part of Naves Crossroad was started June 22 by the Cumberland Contracting Company.

This involves 1,327 miles of Route 40 from Naves Crossroad and .4541 of a mile of Route 395. Also included in the dual highway contract is grading for a single lane highway, future relocation of Route 395, plus the construction of a four-span composite steel beam bridge on Hillcrest Drive over Route 40 with spans of 37 feet, 64 feet, 72 feet and 29 feet.

Thirty-seven per cent of the job was completed before work was stopped due to winter weather.

The Baughman Contracting Company of LaVale started on April 17 for relocating 1,066 miles of Route 42 beginning .8 of a mile west of Friendsville and extending westerly to 1.9 miles west of Friendsville.

Sixty-six per cent of this job costing $379,425 was completed by the end of the construction season.

In addition, Penniman and Brown Inc., Baltimore, were awarded a contract during the year for the sub-surface exploration or bridge and culvert sites in Allegany, Garrett and Frederick counties. Only five per cent of this $8,320 job started in December has been finished, Bushby added.

Runaways Returned

Three New York teen-agers, picked up Sunday by City Police in a parked car, were returned to their home last night by their parents.

A survey shows that one fourth of all men wear hats sized 6 1/2.

CHOIR DIRECTOR—Paul G. Peterson will direct the program of the Gettysburg College Choir which will present a concert Thursday at 8 p. m. at Allegany High School under sponsorship of the United Lutheran Men of Allegany County. Peterson was selected acting choir director when Parker B. Wagnild, founder and director of the choir was granted a sabbatical leave this season from Gettysburg College.

Alley Closing Considered

An ordinance will be introduced February 26 before the Mayor and Council to close an unnamed alley between Pine Avenue and Monroe Street.

The 15-foot wide alley is 300 feet long and the request for its closing was made by Herman M. Meekins through his attorney, George R. Hughes Jr. The alley is located in the Cumberland Improvement Company's Eastern Addition and Eastern Addition Annex.

In other action yesterday, council authorized payment of $507.50 to the director of Civil Defense representing 50 per cent of the difference in cost of between a smaller and larger generator which is to be placed at Central Fire Station by the CD organization. It will supply added power for the fire alarm and warning systems of the Fire Department.

A building permit fee for an addition to Gephart School was waived.

Council accepted the bid of Cumberland Cement and Supply Company in the amount of $2.05 a foot for 240 feet of pipe for the Mullan Street sewer.

Referred to City Attorney William R. Carscaden was a letter from D. L. Tichnell, secretary of the Joint Apprentices Committee of Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union. The letter mentioned a tax exemption in building and equipment at 401 North Mechanic Street in view of the fact it is to be used as a school for teaching apprentices and journeymen.

Bruce To Take Part In Exercise

Lt. Col. Oliver H. Bruce Jr., son of Mrs. Margaret K. Bruce, 314 Fayette Street, and the late Judge Bruce, will participate with other personnel from Army Headquarters, Alaska, in Exercise Great Bear, a joint U. S.-Canadian winter maneuver in Alaska, February 12-21.

The exercise will test cold weather military doctrine and the ability of the two allied armies to work together as a fighting team.

Exercise Great Bear will be conducted in the vicinity of Tanacross and Eielson Air Force Base, one of the most rugged areas over which an Alaskan maneuver has ever been held.

Principal terrain features in the 3,200 square-mile maneuver area are the heavily forested lowlands of the Tanana river valley and the mountains, which range as high as 4,000 feet, converging on both sides of the valley.

Col. Bruce entered the Army in 1941, arrived in Alaska last September on this tour of duty, and is deputy assistant chief of staff for intelligence in the headquarters at Fort Richardson.

The 43-year-old officer is a 1936 graduate of Allegany High School and a 1940 graduate of Georgetown University in Washington, D. C.

Youth Is Injured In Auto Accident

A Pennsylvania teen-ager was hospitalized following a one-car accident Sunday in nearby Bedford County.

The youth, Paul Wadsworth, 18, of Indiana, Pa., was injured when his car skidded on icy U. S. Route 220 at King, Pa., and crashed into a utility pole.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said the youth was taken to the Roaring Springs, Pa., hospital. The extent of his injuries was not known.

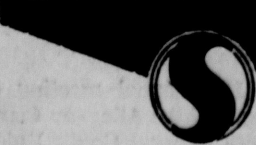

Church Is Planning Ham Supper Friday

A ham supper will be held at Davis Memorial Methodist Church, Oldtown Road, at 5 p. m. Friday.

The event is sponsored by the Sunday school and proceeds will be used for purchasing vacation Bible school supplies.

The basilica of St. Peter's in Rome covers 3.7 acres.

ACEI Workshop Set Tomorrow

The Allegany County branch of the Association for Childhood Education International will hold a dinner and music workshop tomorrow at West Side School.

Raymond Ralston, principal of Ellerslie Elementary School, who also is president of the local ACEI branch, said the dinner will be held at 5:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria and the workshop will start at 6:30 p. m. in the auditorium.

Mr. Ralston said approximately 80 elementary teachers and new teachers in the county are expected to attend the event.

The music workshop will be conducted by LaVern J. Hahn, supervisor of music education for Allegany County.

Some of the topics to be discussed at the workshop will be "Elementary Music Courses of Study," "Instruments to be Used in the Elementary Program," "The Resource Teacher," "What the Elementary Teacher Does Beyond the Resource Teacher," and "Arranging Simple Chords for the Autoharp."

The barbecue originated in the South. It was popular in Virginia prior to 1700.

Frostburg Landfill Is Problem For Teacher

James W. Spitznas, who teaches problems of democracy at Valley High School, has his own personal problem involving a sanitary landfill situated near his home on Braddock Road in Frostburg.

In an effort to expedite a solution to his problem, Mr. Spitznas earlier this month wrote both James McComas, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, and Mayor Joseph James and the City Council of Frostburg.

In his letter to Mr. McComas, the Valley High School teacher referred to an earlier letter dated December 28, 1960. In that original letter, Mr. Spitznas said, he outlined in detail violations at the Frostburg sanitary landfill.

After approximately one year, Mr. Spitznas writes that he sees no appreciable difference except for the addition of rats.

Mr. Spitznas points out that the law states that refuse in a sanitary landfill must be covered daily. What small percentage has been covered is done on the average only about once every two weeks, he asserts.

The teacher adds that the law provides that the landfill must be at least 500 feet from the public highway. It used to be 50 to 75 feet from the road and now is approximately 150 to 200 feet from the road, he states.

In his letter to the Frostburg officials, Mr. Spitznas says that he was told erroneously that no garbage or other waste would be dumped in the strip mine opening nearest the road. It was to be used only for ashes and dirt from excavations. The teacher invites an inspection.

He also reports that he was told there would be no burning and that no insects would be attracted because the landfill would be covered daily. Mr. Spitznas says the flies come to his house by the thousands in the summer months.

Guardsmen Promoted

A number of promotions, an appointment and commendation of unit personnel of Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Infantry Division have been announced by Lt. Norman D. Messman, commanding officer.

Advanced to private first class upon completion of six months active duty training were Thomas M. Cecil, Claude W. Comer, Laurence V. Cosgrove, Samuel E. DeBene, David C. Gehauf, Kerry L. Highsmith, William C. Kifer, Richard D. Luzzier, James E. McKenzie, John R. Nine, George G. Poland, Wayne E. Shuck, John H. Sticher and Oran R. Twigg.

They completed basic training and advanced armored unit training at Army recruit training centers in the eastern part of the country.

Platoon Sgt. James A. Stample was appointed a member of the Unit Fund Council, according to Lt. Messman, who presented certificates of training to Sgts. John R. Bull and Fay W. Kaiser. They completed a radiological survey and monitoring school at Camp Pickett, Va. Gen. William C. Purnell, commanding officer of the 29th Division, signed the certificates.

Teachers Elect Officers For Credit Union

At the 12th annual meeting of stockholders of the Allegany County Teachers Federal Credit Union in the Board of Education office here, James D. Preaskorn was elected president.

Named to serve with him are Carleton Shore, vice president; Paul Footen, treasurer; William R. Williams, secretary; Thomas Wagner, Mrs. Rosalie Shobe and Mrs. Gertrude Williams, directors.

Mrs. Nellie Isaacs was elected chairman of the credit committee with Mrs. Samantha Lucas, Miss Katherine Laughlin, Calvin G. Rankin, Miss Mildred DeMoss and Miss Susan Gleeson composing the supervising committee.

Teachers elected to the education committee include Mr. Shore, John Kelly, John Wattach, William Pugh, Mr. Wagner, Mrs. JoAnn Dawson, Hayden Dawson and Glenn U. Hanna.

Following reading of reports, the directors announced an annual dividend of 3.6 per cent.

The next meeting of the Credit Union will be held on February 14 at 7:30 p. m. at the Board of Education office, at which time activities for 1962-63 will be discussed and other business and details will be outlined.

Sanitary District For Bedford Road Will Be Discussed

The possibility of creating a Sanitary District in the Bedford Road section will be discussed tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. during a meeting of the Bedford Road Optimist Club at the fire hall.

John Chaney, program chairman, said members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Leslie J. Clark, board attorney, and members of the County Sanitary Commission are expected to be present.

All residents of the Bedford Road area are being invited to attend the meeting, said Mr. Chaney.

Guard Has Opening For Radio Mechanic

Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion of the local National Guard has an opening for a radio communications mechanic with the rating of sergeant (E-5).

Lt. Norman D. Messman, commanding officer of the company, said the position is open for a prior service non-commissioned officer with school training in armor radio repair and maintenance. Interested persons are asked to contact Lt. Messman or Sgt. Joseph C. Vandergrift, unit administrative technician, at the Brown Avenue Armory or by calling PA 4-3710.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am gravely concerned about our seven-year-old son Gregory.

A few weeks ago our neighbors phoned to report that Gregory had been seen throwing lighted matches at their collie. Gregory denied it and said the big boys were just trying to get him into trouble. I believed him.

This morning I glanced out the window and saw Gregory beating a small kitten with a stick. I rushed out of the house and gave him a severe scolding. He said he was just petting the kitten, but I know better.

Gregory is an only child. My husband and I both work but we have a competent housekeeper who has been with us five years. She is strict with Gregory and does a fine job of disciplining him. We are at a loss to understand this sadistic streak. What should be done? — Q. T.

DEAR Q. T.: A child who would burn a dog with matches and beat a kitten with a stick is acting out violent hostilities.

Perhaps the housekeeper employs more rigid disciplinary measures than you suspect. Youngsters who behave in a destructive and sadistic manner are "getting even" with a world which has treated him unjustly.

Rearrange your work schedule and be at home when Gregory arrives from school. Your full-time job may be costing you more than you know. The child needs a mother's love and attention — and perhaps some therapy as well.

DEAR ANN: Mother and I have been arguing about something since Christmas. Can you settle it?

We live in an apartment building. Mother mailed a Christmas card to each of the tenants. I say she should have dropped the cards in the mailboxes and saved the stamp money. She says that a few people in the building have done this and that it looks cheap. I say the only thing that counts is that the people receive their cards. It doesn't matter if the card comes through the post office.

Who is right?—FRUGAL FANNY

Which College?

or Pamela may be all wrong for Paul or Penny. What makes a college right for your child may involve many things including—among others—its size, location, facilities, admission requirements, and the kind of intellectual demands placed on a student by a faculty.

Family finances often play an important and sometimes a controlling part in college choice, but this subject will only be mentioned here because it is covered in another article.

If your child's interests are already developing along specific lines such as mathematics or science, for example, then the strength of the college in those subjects should certainly be investigated.

It's also important to remember that a college education should prepare students for living as well as for earning a living and that wisdom is an even more valuable commodity than knowledge.

Through all the days of searching for proper colleges and through all the long weeks of waiting for that final decision from the college, remind your child that his future success and happiness do not depend on admission to one particular college. Help him to realize that no matter what college he chooses he's likely to find more books than he can read in two years or four years, more equipment than he can master while he is there, and teachers who will be wiser and better informed than he is even when he is a senior.

Mason Road Farm Sold By Fagan

Edward L. Fagan has sold his 95-acre farm on Mason Road in Election District 21 to Richard W. Fagan, according to a deed filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. Stamps affixed to the deed indicated that the purchase price was about $30,000.

Both Lakes Down

Water consumption last week averaged 11,310,000 gallons daily, down about 2,000,000 gallons a day from last year. Lake Gordon was four feet, six inches below the spillway and Lake Koon, down 22 feet. A year ago, Gordon was down three feet, nine inches and Koon, 15 feet, nine inches.

Georgia, with its 23,800,000 acres of woodland, is the largest state east of the Mississippi River.

Opening lead King of ♠

It might be interesting to present today's hand, all hands exposed, to your favorite partner with the query as to whether he would prefer to play or defend against the six heart contract.

Declarer took the opening lead of the king of spades and drew trumps in three rounds, discarding the deuce of spades and the six of clubs. He then led a low club and the queen was taken by East's ace. A spade was returned and ruffed by declarer.

The king of clubs was cashed and the closed hand was re-entered with the king of diamonds. Another trump was cashed and now, four cards from the end, dummy held three diamonds and the jack of spades. West held three diamonds and the queen of spades. When declarer led his last trump, it was impossible for West to make a safe discard.

Returning to the position after trumps were drawn at trick five, when the club was led and the queen played from dummy, East had a chance for a brilliant diagnosis. It was clear that declarer had six solid hearts, and the only other side cards he could have were the king and queen of diamonds. It was evident that 11 tricks were available to him, but that the 12th could be developed in a squeeze against West, who is known to have the queen of spades and probably holds a diamond stopper.

East should have refused to win the trick. By refusing to permit declarer to concede his losing trick early in the play, East could have spiked the enemy's guns.

Note now, if declarer leads all his trumps, West will be left with five cards instead of four; in other words, he will have a spare club which can be discarded on South's last trump lead, enabling him to retain his diamond stopper and the queen of spades.

What Kind Of A Complex?

When three Americans get together, one is likely to hear three points of view. In Russia — if you can believe Nikita Khrushchev, which you can't — everybody agrees with everybody else on most subjects.

Actually, a good show of unanimity among Russians can be expected as long as they remain carefully shielded from the "lies" of the "imperialists" and consequently get to hear only one side of most questions.

But to return to Americans. Dr. Herman Kahn, an expert on thermonuclear war, was saying the other day that maybe it isn't a bad thing the Russians are ahead of us in the space program. We're ahead of them in so many other things that otherwise they might get a dangerous inferiority complex!

Well, it's a point of view, no doubt. But Dr. Arthur Kantrowitz, vice president of the Avco Corp., said in the same panel discussion that he was less worried about inferiority complexes than about the danger the Russians would begin to think they were 10 feet tall.

"The beginnings of mastery are intoxicating," he warned. Russia may develop delusions of grandeur, or what Stalin (before he got the virus himself) called "dizziness from success."

Another panelist, aeronautical engineer Walter M. Mahurin, was less happy than Dr. Kahn over the fact Russia has beat us to major space achievements. Mr. Mahurin, however, seemed more hopeful than Dr. Kantrowitz. In three future space "firsts," he said, the United States still has a "good chance" to score. It might be the first nation to achieve a rendezvous in space between two vehicles; the first to transfer men from one space vehicle to another; the first to land men on the moon.

Russia, of course, may be first in all three. Whether you think that would be good or bad for her depends on which of the two Drs. K you agree with. But we would like for the United States to be first. Americans have had their inferiority complex long enough.

When Men Were Great

I see that Murray Kempton, the Liberal, has discovered that Fulton Lewis, Jr., and I are not being swept away by what the President calls Extreme Rightism. But then Lewis and I do not seek to change the world but to preserve it. We find that some of our colleagues on the Right, like so many on the Left, are anxious to change everything swiftly.

That is a problem that faces all men who think about what they are doing. If we object to Lenin, as we do, it is not because Lenin wore whiskers or was born in Russia, but because we think that he has substituted materialism for morality. Bill Buckley prefers Thomas Aquinas as a leader and I prefer Moses Maimonides — which comes to the same thing. When we go back another thousand years or so, we split off and I remain a Jew and he becomes a Catholic, but again the difference is slight if we stick to essentials.

On the other hand, Lenin has nothing to offer us and the John Birch Society and similar Extreme Rightists even less because they are neither materialists nor idealists; they are battlers against those whom they hate. I, at any rate, find hatred unnecessary. It is a waste of intellectual effort and it is sheer emotionalism.

I was looking at an album of pictures and beautiful scrolls, illumined on parchment, in Francis Robinson's office at the Metropolitan Opera House. It was a delightful thing to get together for David Belasco by the Board of Directors of the Met on the appearance of "The Girl of the Golden West." What is so stirring about the Album to me is the small fact that those who put the show on the road were all great souls and are still remembered.

There was David Belasco who dared to give the theater something better than a shrill musical; there was Puccini, idol of a new era of opera who brought together East and West in music and ideas; there was Toscanini who lived long enough to be the greatest in his field. And there was Enrico Caruso, endowed by God with perfection in artistry.

It was a period of peace and during peace, the arts bloom and it is during a period of peace that men think honestly because they are not afraid. It is fear that drives us into false directions. And we do move in false directions because we not only fear the future about which we know nothing but the consequences of our mistakes about which we know a great deal now.

The difference between the era of Belasco, who could give us "The Girl of the Golden West," and today when we have failed to meet up with our responsibilities and accept our defeats as victories and our stupidities as signs of genius, is that in those days there was time to do things slowly and sanely and today we must rush because otherwise the missile will beat us to the punch.

A member of Congress bawled me out because whereas he and I agreed on fundamentals which is that we have lost so much time during the past two decades that our civilization is in peril, he felt that we could restore our strength by adhering rigidly to the concepts of our Founding Fathers, whereas I felt that we must take drastic actions.

He, I am sure, has not had the experience of a cancer. I have. The question is, does one live or die and the answer must not only be swift but it must be correct and it must be made by one man—the doctor who has to cut the cancer out. There are no alternatives and the very method employed may be the killing factor. But one either dies or goes on living and no one can guarantee that the cure will not kill.

I remember when I lay in a hospital bed decisionless. All power was concentrated in this strange person whom I had to trust. I had no knowledge, no experience, no wisdom. I either believed that what he did was right or I took my chances and accepted the consequences.

A nation is like that at a moment when its mistakes mount up and a decision must be made and must have finality. The cure can kill, but it can also save.

The Concealed Contest On Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON

A momentary flurry here was caused by the surprise announcement that the United States was now willing, and even anxious, to merge the interminable nuclear test-ban negotiations into the broader, still less encouraging negotiations about general disarmament.

In reality, there was a simple motive for this decision to accept a long-standing long-resisted Soviet proposal. In the opinion of the President's able disarmament advisor, William C. Foster, the nuclear test-ban negotiations had reached a stage of hopeless deadlock. Therefore Foster advised that the merger would avoid further waste of time and negotiating manpower.

The flurry was caused by momentary, quite incorrect suspicions that the decision had another, less obvious motive. It was suspected in some quarters, in fact, that the move would somehow limit the freedom of the United States to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

The suspicion, as it happens, was groundless; but the fact that this simple, practically motivated decision aroused such a suspicion is decidedly indicative. It indicates the existence of a concealed but active contest inside the Administration, on the grave issue of atmospheric nuclear testing.

The latest and most interesting round in the contest was linked to the President's message on the State of the Union. To the surprise of both the State and Defense Departments, one of the preliminary drafts of the message included an offer by the President to cease testing if the Soviets would also agree to do so.

There is controversy about the actual language of the offer, which is now buried deep in the White House files. But it at least appeared as the beginning of a return to the Eisenhower-era unpunctuated moratorium on tests. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the Pentagon leaders strongly opposed making the offer. The controversial passage was then dropped from the message.

Precisely where the aborted scheme originated, and just who sponsored it, are both impossible to determine. Too much should not be made of it, since the early drafts of the State of the Union message are notorious hold-alls. Nonetheless, the incident suggests that the opponents of a resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing are both active and persistent. On the other hand, these opponents clearly have an uphill contest on their hands, since both the Secretary of State and the Pentagon bosses lined up so firmly against them.

Besides the usual arguments about "world opinion" and about "heating up the arms race," the opponents of testing are reportedly using the argument that American atmospheric tests will cause difficulties for the U. S. delegation at the UN. Ambassador to the UN Adlai Stevenson wrote the President that he "deplored" any re-

THE ANSWER — Government officials who have long known they are prime subjects for the capital's news photographers have often wondered why this aggressive breed shot so many pictures of them.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, perhaps somewhat bolder than his colleagues, decided to find out. At a recent session with the cult of the flashing bulbs, Rusk asked: "Why do you take pictures of me every time you see me when you have so many unused ones in your files?"

Right back came this disturbing answer: "Because some day you may get shot, and we want to have the last picture of you."

This effectively quieted the secretary of State. But for his benefit the answer is neither the only nor the primary reason. Photographers take all those news pictures in the hope of catching a pose that uniquely illustrates a news story, and besides, they have to prove to their own bosses that they were on the assignment given them.

ELEPHANTS — The late Sen. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, spent years collecting carved elephants for his office, but the collection has now been broken up by his widow.

She decided that the 300-odd ivory, bone, teak and metal pachyderms should be given to the late senator's colleagues, office workers and friends, and has invited these groups to take their pick of the collection.

There will be many of the collection left, however, and Mrs. Bridges plans to keep these herself. She has aspirations to win the Senate seat vacated by the death of her husband and, if elected, will decorate her own Senate office with them.

Treatment For Impetigo Has Been Improved

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A reader from Midvale, Utah, writes: "How should impetigo be treated and how can the sores be identified? Someone told me only filthy people develop it. Is this true?"

The answer to the last question is no. Impetigo is common in children because the skin of the young is susceptible to staphylococcal infections; boils occur for the same reason. These organisms usually inhabit the nose and throat and are particularly abundant whenever a cold exists. From here, the germs are easily carried via the fingers to the skin and enter through breaks created by scratching.

Impetigo begins as a red spot, generally on the face near the mouth or nose. A blister ruptures within a day or two, covering the lesion with a thick, honey-combed yellow crust. The fluid teems with staphylococci and is extremely contagious. New lesions develop wherever the fluid touches.

It is not difficult to imagine what happens when a 6 year old develops impetigo and picks or scratches the lesions. Blisters break out all over the face and neck. In time, the younger brothers and sisters also become infected. It is here that cleanliness enters the picture. The hands should be washed frequently but it is almost impossible to keep the small fry's fingers from touching, scratching, and picking off crusts.

In the past, ammoniated mercury or purple staining gentian violet was used. The crusts were removed with warm, normal saline to allow the antiseptics to kill the staphylococci. Nowadays, antibiotics by injection or in tablet form bring impetigo under control. Special tests must be done on the secretions if the eruption does not respond to this therapy.

Meanwhile, the towels, clothing, and bed linen should be changed frequently to minimize the possibility of recurrence.

TONGUE TUNNEL

T. V. writes: My doctor says I have a cleft tongue and it is causing bad breath. I've heard of cleft palate and lip but not the tongue.

REPLY
A cleft in the tongue is a transverse pocket or depressed area near the back part, close to the throat. Halitosis develops when food collects and ferments in this pocket. The odor disappears when the depression is cleared out.

SPOTS OR FLOATERS

W. R. writes: When a person sees spots before the eyes, does he need glasses?

REPLY
He may, but there are so many other causes, he should consult an ophthalmologist. We have a leaflet on spots before the eyes that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

DON'T BLAME MILK

R. M. writes: Does drinking milk make postnasal drip worse?

REPLY
No and I often wonder where this myth came from. For a discussion on the causes of this disorder, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on postnasal drip.

CHILDISH BEHAVIOR

A. D. writes: What is lacking in a child who eats the tops of burned matches?

REPLY
Judgment and maturity — not charcoal, carbon, or sulfur. Children usually outgrow the habit (pica) by age 4 or 5.

FISH TOLERATED

Mrs. V. N. writes: Is fish good for a person with gall bladder trouble?

REPLY
Fish is tolerated, provided it is baked, boiled, or broiled.

FOOD AND ULCER

E. W. writes: Can a person with ulcer eat anything in the pain free period?

REPLY
Yes, but it is not advisable, especially foods that irritate the stomach or overstimulate gastric secretion. Avoid large amounts of roughage, spices, concentrated acid foods, coffee, tea, and alcohol. Small amounts of these products when the ulcer is quiescent usually are not harmful.

DON'T WALK ABOUT

H. S. writes: Should you stay in bed with walking pneumonia?

REPLY
Yes, because healing occurs more rapidly. The condition is so-called because the pneumonia is mild and the individual continues to be active. Many of the victims think they have a cold and feel fair except for cough and fatigue.

To the Unit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

WASHINGTON — The American people should get an interesting insight, beginning today, into those who are looking over President Kennedy's shoulder trying to tell him when, how, and where to start a war.

For today a Senate subcommittee under Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi begins probing the charges of whether the Kennedy Administration has been muzzling military men.

The hearing will have some glamorous aspects. Gen. Edwin Walker, who commanded U. S. troops at Little Rock, then resigned when he was slapped for indoctrinating his troops with John Birch ideas, has been itching to testify. But his best booster, Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, is worried over that testimony, knows that Walker took the Army fifth amendment when cross-examined in Germany. So Thurmond hopes to slide the general on and off the witness stand as quickly as possible before anyone can pop a question.

Then there's Adm. Arleigh Burke, a much stabler and more effective military man with a great combat record, but who suffers the failings of some combat officers. He forgets the constitution, and seems to think that foreign policy is in the hands of the military.

Preventive War Group

During the Truman administration, Burke commanded one of the most interesting organizations ever developed by the Navy, "Operation 23," a secret publicity bureau aimed at undercutting both the Army and Air Force.

By Drew Pearson

It consisted of 12 officers and 17 enlisted men, all on regular duty and officially assigned to Burke, who flooded the newspapers with propaganda against the Army. Simultaneously, a secret memo turned up in the offices of congressmen claiming that Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Symington had ordered the B-36 for personal profit.

The propaganda was so vicious and so widespread that a congressional committee investigated, and President Truman at first refused to ok Burke's promotion. Now the same admiral has been telling congressmen how his speeches were censored by Defense Department and White House civilians. Of course they were. But such is the provision of the constitution. Under our system of government, military men are not spokesmen for the direction of foreign affairs.

Significantly, most of these military men who have been trying to tell Truman and Eisenhower and Kennedy how to run civilian matters don't have confidence in the democratic form of government or the capitalistic system. Their solution is preventive war.

These are some of the people now looking over Kennedy's shoulder.

Over Khrushchev's Shoulder

Looking over Khrushchev's shoulder during recent weeks have been an assortment of Stalinists, Molotov-champions and Red Chinese sympathizers who have been telling him what the preventive-war right-wingers in the United States have been telling Kennedy in reverse—namely, that communism can't succeed unless there is war with capitalism.

The argument inside the Kremlin, according to usually accurate diplomatic reports, has been so hectic that communist leaders in Poland talked to the American embassy in Warsaw to urge that President Kennedy make a move to help out Khrushchev. They wanted a gesture from the West to show the Stalinist right-wingers that peaceful coexistence, as preached by Khrushchev, can succeed.

On one side, Stalinists argued that the Russian people are becoming too absorbed in better housing, better clothes, and the capitalistic things of life; that they had to be constantly whipped up into fear of the capitalist aggressors in order to make the sacrifices necessary to communism. Unless people are constantly harassed by hate and fear of capitalism, Stalin had long argued, they will not remain dedicated, devoted communists.

To use Molotov's exact words, given in a letter to the October Communist Party Congress: "Without serious conflict, without war, advance toward communism is impossible."

Last summer Khrushchev told me of previous arguments with Molotov, his claims to Molotov that atomic war is unthinkable, his belief that the Russian people should be given a chance to improve their living standards and that the communist-capitalist worlds could exist together side by side. According to all reports from Moscow last week, the debate is still continuing.

These are the men who are looking over Khrushchev's shoulder.

When you consider that Kennedy has to prove to the American right wing that he is not soft on communism, while Khrushchev has to prove to the Stalinist right wing that he is not soft on capitalism, you can understand why the negotiations over Berlin are difficult.

Behind The Scenes

Premier Chou En-Lai is cocky in his prediction that it's just a matter of time before Khrushchev is swept out of power. The Chinese seem supremely confident that their rough brand of communism will win out. Their main line of attack will be to demand majority within the Communist Congress instead of one-nation rule by Russia. . . . The Communist Party in North Vietnam is split wide open along the same lines as Peiping and Moscow. Pro-Khrushchev and pro-Stalin wings of the party are battling. It looks as if the Stalinists will win out, which will mean the Chinese communists will become the principal suppliers of arms and advisers in Vietnam, replacing the Russians. This will make it much tougher in Laos and the rest of former French Indo-China. (Copyright, 1962, by The Bell Syndicate)

Necessarily So

By John Crosby

MONTE CARLO

After watching six hours of television a day from fourteen countries, five of them behind the Iron Curtain, I have come to the conclusion that television is the medium for dream merchants in everyone's country but that our side of the curtain grapples with the harsh realities a good deal more openly than theirs does.

There were nine awards made, all good choices, I thought. My only complaint was that the field of news and public affairs, in which we had three splendid entries — "The Hemingway Story," "The Eichmann Story," and "Hollywood: The Golden Years" — received no awards. This, I think, is a mistake because television is a great news and information medium. The chief emphasis in the awards was on creative and cultural programs, (probably reflecting the strong creative slant of the jurors, which included three playwrights). The award for best drama, for instance, went to a Russian entry, "Aesop," an extraordinarily classic drama of ancient Greece. But after all, Aesop is several thousands years old. The acting award went to a marvelous Czech actor, Jan Werich, playing Chekhov, who has been dead some time, too. An American entrant, Pablo Casals, teaching the cello, won the top award.

Easily the most honest, most outspoken, most candid, most self-critical drama was Reginald Rose's remarkable study of a school integration crisis in a Southern town, "Black Monday." I had seen it before in the States and was very impressed by it. But seeing it in the company of a roomful of Europeans was instructive. After an hour of this harrowing drama, Marcel Pagnol, the gentle French author of such plays as "Fanny" and "The Baker's Wife," started pacing back and forth, shaking his head. "It is too much, too much," he said. Another juror, Tetsuro Furukaki, Japanese Ambassador to France, declared — a delicious comment — "It is not necessarily necessary." Our brutal realism in this sort of drama is just too harrowing for the sensibilities of many Europeans.

The only other people (if this festival is any criterion) who engage in this sort of scorching, self-condemnation are the Germans. One German entry was a film of a true story called "Soldier Pooley's Oath." Soldier Pooley was an English soldier captured with his whole company at Dunkirk. An S.S. officer ordered the whole company machine-gunned to death. Pooley somehow survived this massacre, swore to get the S.S. officer, scoured prisoner-of-war camps after the war, nailed his man, and succeeded in getting him tried and executed. A remarkable story. The particularly remarkable in that the Germans are the villains of it, the British are the heroes, and yet this is a German film. I don't think any other country, including ours, would exorcise its own countrymen that way.

There was remarkably little propaganda in the Iron Curtain entries, one reason being that the out-and-out propaganda entrants were screened out in advance of the festival. One film from Russia called "Le Frison" starred an adorable little boy of seven (the looked closer to four by our standards), a sort of Russian Jackie Coogan, and the story was the Russian Revolution in a small town as seen through this little boy's eyes. The Russians, I'm told, turn out these Russian Revolution stories as we turn out Westerns. In fact, they have somewhat the same appeal. That is, there are the good guys (the proletariat) and the bad guys (Czarist soldiers). There are horses and open plains, a good deal of shooting, and the good guys always win. Also, it all took place a long time ago and it's in costume. These are for home consumption, not for export.

The only really blatant anti-American propaganda was in a Russian color television film, which was shown by the Russians as an example of their progress in color TV. It was not in competition and it was pretty funny. A very effeminate Russian dancer played Castro freeing the Cuban workers and then led them against the nasty invading Americans. It was fairly ridiculous and it was rather a strain keeping our faces straight in front of our Russian hosts while they ran it.

The Japanese entries I found lugubrious (even as the Japanese Ambassadors found ours harrowing). There was a drama called "Kill or Be Killed" in which every last member of the cast, which was enormous, wound up dead. Before they died, they did more weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth and rolling of eyes and pounding of forehead on the ground than seemed quite necessarily necessary. Another documentary drama about Japan's twenty-six Catholics martyred in the sixteenth century was the most interminable martyrdom I have ever seen—at least a half hour too long.

As to the bobby prize, easily the worst program on view—may be the worst program I ever saw—was the United Arab Republic's lone entry called "The Enchanted Flute," a sort of dim-witted musical comedy, chanted in Arabic with French subtitles. The Egyptians need help badly. Not the Aswan Dam. Some directors.

Right back came this disturbing answer: "Because some day you may get shot, and we want to have the last picture of you."

This effectively quieted the secretary of State. But for his benefit the answer is neither the only nor the primary reason. Photographers take all those news pictures in the hope of catching a pose that uniquely illustrates a news story, and besides, they have to prove to their own bosses that they were on the assignment given them.

ELEPHANTS — The late Sen. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, spent years collecting carved elephants for his office, but the collection has now been broken up by his widow.

She decided that the 300-odd ivory, bone, teak and metal pachyderms should be given to the late senator's colleagues, office workers and friends, and has invited these groups to take their pick of the collection.

There will be many of the collection left, however, and Mrs. Bridges plans to keep these herself. She has aspirations to win the Senate seat vacated by the death of her husband and, if elected, will decorate her own Senate office with them.

Hearing To Shed Light On Men
Looking Over Kennedy's Shoulder

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The American people should get an interesting insight, beginning today, into those who are looking over President Kennedy's shoulder trying to tell him when, how, and where to start a war.

For today a Senate subcommittee under Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi begins probing the charges of whether the Kennedy Administration has been muzzling military men.

The hearing will have some glamorous aspects. Gen. Edwin Walker, who commanded U. S. troops at Little Rock, then resigned when he was slapped for indoctrinating his troops with John Birch ideas, has been itching to testify. But his best booster, Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, is worried over that testimony, knows that Walker took the Army fifth amendment when cross-examined in Germany. So Thurmond hopes to slide the general on and off the witness stand as quickly as possible before anyone can pop a question.

Then there's Adm. Arleigh Burke, a much stabler and more effective military man with a great combat record, but who suffers the failings of some combat officers. He forgets the constitution, and seems to think that foreign policy is in the hands of the military.

Preventive War Group

the most interesting organizations ever developed by the Navy. "Operation 23," a secret publicity bureau aimed at undercutting both the Army and Air Force.

It consisted of 12 officers and 17 enlisted men, all on regular duty and officially assigned to Burke, who flooded the newspapers with propaganda against the Army. Simultaneously, a secret memo turned up in the offices of congressmen claiming that Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Symington had ordered the B-36 for personal profit.

The propaganda was so vicious and so widespread that a congressional committee investigated, and President Truman at first refused to ok Burke's promotion.

Now the same admiral has been telling congressmen how his speeches were censored by Defense Department and White House civilians. Of course they were. But such is the provision of the constitution. Under our system of government, military men are not spokesmen for the direction of foreign affairs.

Significantly, most of these military men who have been trying to tell Truman and Eisenhower and Kennedy how to run civilian matters don't have confidence in the democratic form of government or the capitalistic system. Their solution is preventive war.

These are some of the people now looking over Kennedy's shoulder.

Over Khrushchev's Shoulder

Looking over Khrushchev's shoulder during recent weeks have been an assortment of Stalinists, Molotov-champions and Red Chinese sympathizers who have been telling him what the preventive-war right-wingers in the United States have been telling Kennedy in reverse—namely, that communism can't succeed unless there is war with capitalism.

The argument inside the Kremlin, according to usually accurate diplomatic reports, has been so hectic that communist leaders in Poland talked to the American embassy in Warsaw to urge that President Kennedy make a move to help out Khrushchev. They wanted a gesture from the West to show the Stalinist right-wingers that peaceful coexistence, as preached by Khrushchev, can succeed.

On one side, Stalinists argued that the Russian people are becoming too absorbed in better housing, better clothes, and the capitalistic things of life; that they had to be constantly whipped up into fear of the capitalist aggressors in order to make the sacrifices necessary to communism. Unless people are constantly harassed by hate and fear of capitalism, Stalin had long argued, they will not remain dedicated, devoted communists.

To use Molotov's exact words, given in a letter to the October Communist Party Congress: "Without serious conflict, without war, advance toward communism is impossible."

Last summer Khrushchev told me of previous arguments with Molotov, his claims to Molotov that atomic war is unthinkable, his belief that the Russian people should be given a chance to improve their living standards and that the communist-capitalist worlds could exist together side by side. According to all reports from Moscow last week, the debate is still continuing.

These are the men who are looking over Khrushchev's shoulder.

When you consider that Kennedy has to prove to the American right wing that he is not soft on communism, while Khrushchev has to prove to the Stalinist right wing that he is not soft on capitalism, you can understand why the negotiations over Berlin are difficult.

Behind The Scenes

Premier Chou En-Lai is cocky in his prediction that it's just a matter of time before Khrushchev is swept out of power. The Chinese seem supremely confident that their rough brand of communism will win out. Their main line of attack will be to demand majority within the Communist Congress instead of one-nation rule by Russia... the Communist Party in North Vietnam is split wide open along the same lines as Peiping and Moscow. Pro-Khrushchev and pro-Stalin wings of the party are battling. It looks as if the Stalinists will win out, which will mean the Chinese communists will become the principal suppliers of arms and advisers in Vietnam, replacing the Russians. This will make it much tougher in Laos and the rest of former French Indo-China. (Copyright, 1962, By the Bell Syndicate)

Necessarily So

MONTE CARLO
After watching six hours of television a day from fourteen countries, five of them behind the Iron Curtain, I have come to the conclusion that television is the medium for dream merchants in everyone's country but that our side of the curtain grapples with the harsh realities a good deal more openly than theirs does.

There were nine awards made, all good choices, I thought. My only complaint was that the field of news and public affairs, in which we had three splendid entries — "The Hemingway Story," "The Eichmann Story," and "Hollywood! The Golden Years" — received no awards. This, I think, is a mistake because television is a great news and information medium. The chief emphasis in the awards was on creative and cultural programs, (probably reflecting the strong creative slant of the jurors, which included three playwrights). The award for best drama, for instance, went to a Russian entry, "Aesop," an extraordinarily classic drama of ancient Greece. But after all, Aesop is several thousands years old. The acting award went to a marvellous Czech actor, Jan Werich, playing Chekhov, who has been dead some time, too. An American entrant, Pablo Casals, teaching the cello, won the top award.

Easily the most honest, most outspoken, most candid, most self-critical drama was Reginald Rose's remarkable study of a school integration crisis in a Southern town, "Black Monday." I had seen it before in the States and was very impressed by it. But seeing it in the company of a roomful of Europeans was instructive. After an hour of this harrowing drama, Marcel Pagnol, the gentle French author of such plays as "Fanny" and "The Baker's Wife," started pacing back and forth, shaking his head. "It is too much, too much," he said. Another juror, Tetsuro Furukaki, Japanese Ambassador to France, declared — a delicious comment — "It is not necessarily necessary." Our brutal realism in this sort of drama is just too harrowing for the sensibilities of many Europeans.

The only other people (if this festival is any criterion) who engage in this sort of scorching, self-condemnation are the Germans. One German entry was a film of a true story called "Soldier Pooley's Oath." Soldier Pooley was an English soldier captured with his whole company at Dunkirk. An S.S. officer ordered the whole company machine-gunned to death. Pooley somehow survived this massacre, swore to get the S.S. officer, scoured prisoner-of-war camps after the war, nailed his man, and succeeded in getting him tried and executed. A remarkable story. The particularly remarkable in that the Germans are the villains of it, the British are the heroes, and yet this is a German film. I don't think any other country, including ours, would exorcise its own countrymen that way.

There was remarkably little propaganda in the Iron Curtain entries, one reason being that the out-and-out propaganda entrants were screened out in advance of the festival. One film from Russia called "Le Fripon" starred an adorable little boy of seven (he looked closer to four by our standards), a sort of Russian Jackie Coogan, and the story was the Russian Revolution in a small town as seen through this little boy's eyes. The Russians, I'm told, turn out these Russian Revolution stories as we turn out Westerns. In fact, they have somewhat the same appeal. That is, there are the good guys (the proletariat) and the bad guys (Czarist soldiers). There are horses and open plains, a good deal of shooting, and the good guys always win. Also, it all took place a long time ago and it's in costume. These are for home consumption, not for export.

The only really blatant anti-American propaganda was in a Russian color television film, which was shown by the Russians as an example of their progress in color TV. It was not in competition and it was pretty funny. A very effeminate Russian dancer played Castro freeing the Cuban workers and then led them against the nasty invading Americans. It was fairly ridiculous and it was rather a strain keeping our faces straight in front of our Russian hosts while they ran it.

The Japanese entries I found lugubrious (even as the Japanese Ambassadors found ours harrowing). There was a drama called "Kill or Be Killed" in which every last member of the cast, which was enormous, wound up dead. Before they died, they did more weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth and rolling of eyes and pounding of forehead on the ground than seemed quite necessarily necessary. Another documentary drama about Japan's twenty-six Catholics martyred in the sixteenth century was the most interminable martyrdom I have ever seen—at least a half hour too long.

As to the booby prize, easily the worst program on view—maybe the worst program I ever saw—was the United Arab Republic's lone entry called "The Enchanted Flute," a sort of dim-witted musical comedy, chanted in Arabic with French subtitles. The Egyptians need help badly. Not the Aswan Dam. Some directors.

Treatment For Impetigo Has Been Improved

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A reader from Midvale, Utah, writes: "How should impetigo be treated and how can the sores be identified? Someone told me only filthy people develop it. Is this true?"

The answer to the last question is no. Impetigo is common in children because the skin of the young is susceptible to staphylococcal infections; boils occur for the same reason. These organisms usually inhabit the nose and throat and are particularly abundant whenever a cold exists. From here, the germs are easily carried via the fingers to the skin and enter through breaks created by scratching.

Impetigo begins as a red spot, generally on the face near the mouth or nose. A blister ruptures within a day or two, covering the lesion with a thick, honey-combed yellow crust. The fluid teems with staphylococci and is extremely contagious. New lesions develop wherever the fluid touches.

It is not difficult to imagine what happens when a 6 year old develops impetigo and picks or scratches the lesions. Blisters break out all over the face and neck. In time, the younger brothers and sisters also become infected. It is here that cleanliness enters the picture. The hands should be washed frequently but it is almost impossible to keep the small fry's fingers from touching, scratching, and picking off crusts.

In the past, ammoniated mercury or purple staining gentian violet was used. The crusts, were removed with warm, normal saline to allow the antiseptics to kill the staphylococci. Nowadays, antibiotics by injection or in tablet form bring impetigo under control. Special tests must be done on the secretions if the eruption does not respond to this therapy.

Meanwhile, the towels, clothing, and bed linen should be changed frequently to minimize the possibility of recurrence.

TONGUE TUNNEL

T. V. writes: My doctor says I have a cleft tongue and it is causing bad breath. I've heard of cleft palate and lip but not the tongue.

REPLY
A cleft in the tongue is a transverse pocket or depressed area near the back part, close to the throat. Halitosis develops when food collects and ferments in this pocket. The odor disappears when the depression is cleared out.

SPOTS OR FLOATERS

W. R. writes: When a person sees spots before the eyes, does he need glasses?

REPLY
He may, but there are so many other causes, he should consult an ophthalmologist. We have a leaflet on spots before the eyes that may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

DON'T BLAME MILK

R. M. writes: Does drinking milk make postnasal drip worse?

REPLY
No and I often wonder where this myth came from. For a dis-

God. "It was wonderful of You," ran this one, "to send me the hundred dollars I asked for. But why did you send it through Washington? As usual those birds down there deducted 95 per cent of it!"

Garrett Commissioners Announce 1962 Tax Rate

OAKLAND — Garrett County Commissioners reported the 1962 levy is $2.35 per each $100 of assessable property.

Five cents of the rate is a special levy for fire departments — allowing $21,419.58 for eight companies. The Oakland Fire Department will receive $3,039.94; Friendsville, Grantsville, Deer Park, Kitzmiller and Accident units, $2,739.94; Gorman and Bloomington, $2,339.97.

The levy to pay off school bonds and interest was for $197,603.18, but because of certain funds which bring in $156,364.08 the actual amount levied was $41,239.10.

Bonds and interest were listed as follows: 1941 bonds, $75,000 and $11,250; 1949 bonds, $39,924.75 and $2,815.94; 1949 bonds, $3,925.36 and $438.94; 1953 bonds, $7,072.92 and $1,337.87; 1953 bonds, $6,972.97 and $2,096.10; 1956 bonds, $25,000 and $13,000; 1956 bonds, $4,318.68 and $1,562.05 and 1956 bonds, $1,927.90 and $960 for a total of $164,142.58 on principal and $33,460.60 interest. Funds that help pay this are state incentive fund of $84,629; county incentive fund of $21,000, natural gas fund of $50,000 and school bond and interest fund of $735.88, making a total of $156,364.08, leaving $41,239.10 for which the county must levy.

Other levies not previously listed include: Judicial, $22,668; legislative and executive, $16,980; finance, $79,057; legal counsel, $1,020; agricultural extension, $10,000; livestock sanitary service, $1,000 and livestock laboratory, $700.

Cubs Study King Arthur

MT. SAVAGE—Ideas chairman, Howard Rice, gave a short talk on King Arthur's magic sword, "Excalibur" at the recent meeting of Cub Pack 50 at St. George's parish hall.

Den 1 enacted a skit titled "A Tournament in the Days of King Arthur." Den 2 presented "The Knighting of a Squire" with a sword battle following. Den 3 had a display of a castle, swords and helmets which were in use in the days of King Arthur. These articles were made by the boys in the den. Den 2 with 60 per cent of the parents attending, was named Honor Den for the month.

A letter of thanks from Sacred Heart Hospital was read by Howard Rice. Chairman Rice also said plans have been made to hold the Blue and Gold dinner February 19 at 6:15 p.m.

The closing ceremony was a living circle led by Cubmaster Harry Long.

A special meeting is to be held in the near future for planning the Exposition Booth and a window display for Boy Scout Week.

Barton Firemen Answered 19 Calls In 1961

BARTON—Fifteen fire alarms, two Civil Defense alerts and two other calls were answered by members of the Barton Volunteer Fire Company during 1961, according to a report completed by Fire Chief Hamill Snyder.

The fire calls included seven cars and trucks; three flue fires; one shed fire; one television set fire; one Christmas tree fire and two forest fires comprised the fire alarms.

There was one call involving high water and another to help search for a lost man. Sixteen of the total of 19 calls were in the Barton fire district while three others were mutual aid calls.

Property loss was held to about $190. Total man hours volunteered amounts to 461. The average response to each alarm was 15 men. Total alarms sounded in 1960 were 31, almost twice as many as last year, the fire chief noted.

To pay for airport expenses up to the present time, the commissioners levied $57,000. The levy for miscellaneous items was $58,650. This category included retired teacher pensions of $10,800; employees retirement system, $3,500; social security, $2,500; employee hospitalization, $4,500; workman's compensation, $1,000; Mayor and Council of Friendsville, $500; incorporated towns share of tax, $3,600; taxes paid in error, $250; incorporated towns share of motor vehicle license fees, $7,000 and a contingent fund of $25,000.

Commissioners estimated the cost of maintaining the local hospital will be $29,000. However, the natural gas tax fund will provide $24,181.23 of this amount, leaving $4,818.77 to be levied plus $17,000 for debt service and $12,000 for expense of patients at other hospitals.

Roger Maris Wins Pro Athlete Of Year Award

Paul Hornung Of Green Bay Is Runner-Up

$10,000 Diamond Studded Belt Goes To Home Run King

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Home run king Roger Maris of the New York Yankees, the first man to hit 61 homers in one season, picked up an additional reward Monday night when he was named winner of the $10,000 Hickok diamond-studded belt as "professional athlete of the year".

Hornung Is Runner-Up

Only athletes who were named first in one of the Hickok monthly polls were eligible for balloting for the $10,000 prize. Maris received 85 first-place votes for a total of 304 points. Hornung had 13 first-place votes and 141 points and Ford 14 first-place votes and 108 points.

Following the top three were: pitcher Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves 99 points, golfer Jerry Barber 31, basketball star Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics 22, quarterback Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants 15, middleweight boxing champion Gene Fullmer 15, heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson 12, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees 10, auto racing driver A. J. Foyt 10, basketball star Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers 10, and basketball star Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors 10.

Maris was the sixth baseball player to win the belt in the 12-year history of the award—and the fifth member of the Yankees.

Ford Wins Crosby Golf In Sudden-Death Playoff

Catches Campbell In Final Round To Take $5,300 Prize

By HAL WOOD

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Doug Ford came roaring down the stretch to catch front-running Joe Campbell, then beat him on the first playoff hole to capture the $5,000 Bing Crosby National pro-amateur golf championship Monday.

Two down at the start of the final round of the storm-delayed tournament, Ford won the championship when he blasted out of a trap five feet from the pin and then knocked in a six-foot putt for a par.

Top Prize Is $5,300

That was good enough to clinch the $5,300 first prize as Campbell was short of the green on his par-four approach, chipped eight feet past the hole and missed the putt.

Both Campbell and Ford had finished the regulation 72 holes with scores of 286—the only players in the field of 162 professionals who broke par on the tough courses used in this event.

Campbell, who had been in no worse than a tie for the lead since the first day of the tournament, picked up second prize of $3,400. Phil Rodgers, who made a gallant run at the leaders midway through Monday's round, faded on the home stretch and finished two strokes back in third place with a 288 score, even par for the distance. That was good for $2,200.

It was a great victory for Ford. He had come from two strokes off the pace and he had to make up the deficiency in the most trying of conditions.

Ford, noted for his popular style of play in which he races from one shot to the next and spends no time at all lining up his putts, had a two-over-par 74 Monday against the 76 for Campbell.

Two Tie For Fourth

Back of the leaders, in a tie for fourth place, came Dave Ragan, Sun City, Fla., who had a 73 Monday; and Ken Venturi, San Francisco, who faded to a 76. They had 290 totals.

The pro - amateur championship, as expected, easily went to a team made up of pro Bob McCallister, Yorba Linda, Calif., and tiny Albie Pearson, the fleet little outfielder of the Los Angeles Angels.

They posted a best-ball of 255—six strokes ahead of the field. Pearson, who had a 10-stroke handicap, helped his partner 44 strokes during the four days.

Roger Maris Wins Pro Athlete Of Year Award

Paul Hornung Of Green Bay Is Runner-Up

$10,000 Diamond Studded Belt Goes To Home Run King

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Home run king Roger Maris of the New York Yankees, the first man to hit 61 homers in one season, picked up an additional reward Monday night when he was named winner of the $10,000 Hickok diamond-studded belt as "professional athlete of the year".

Maris, who received the belt at the annual Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner Monday night, won the prize easily in nationwide balloting with Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers second and pitcher Whitey Ford of the Yankees third.

Hornung Is Runner-Up
Only athletes who were named first in one of the Hickok monthly polls were eligible for balloting for the $10,000 prize. Maris received 85 first-place votes for a total of 304 points. Hornung had 13 first-place votes and 141 points and Ford 14 first-place votes and 108 points.

Following the top three were: pitcher Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves 99 points, golfer Jerry Barber 31, basketball star Bob Cousy of the Boston Celtics 22, quarterback Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants 15, middleweight boxing champion Gene Fullmer 15, heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson 12, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees 10, auto racing driver A. J. Foyt 10, basketball star Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers 10, and basketball star Walt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors 10.

Fifth Yankee To Win

Maris was the sixth baseball player to win the belt in the 12-year history of the award — and the fifth member of the Yankees.

Terps Trip Miami 71-68

Blow 17-Point Lead Then Rally To Win

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — University of Maryland's basketball team blew a 17-point lead but came back in the closing stages to nip the University of Miami Hurricanes 71-68 in a basketball game before 1,541 fans Monday night.

Miami broke away at the start as Ken Allen hit twice from far out but the Terrapins edged ahead 9-7 after four minutes when Bruce Kelleher drove in for a layup. At this stage Maryland's tight zone defense forced Miami into shooting from far out while the Terps took advantage of Miami defensive errors to build up a 40-23 lead.

Mike McCoy narrowed the gap to 40-27 with two field goals just before the half ended.

For the first six minutes of the second half, play was fairly even and then the Hurricanes went on a rampage as both McCoy and Julie Cohen stole the ball and drove all the way for scores.

Lee Woods put Miami ahead 53-52 and the Hurricanes extended their lead to 60-56 as Cohen broke loose repeatedly for drive-in shots.

However, with three minutes to play, Scott Ferguson, who was not supposed to play because of an injured shoulder, came off the bench and got free for two open shots and the Terps went ahead 66-64.

Jerry Greenspan and Bill Stasiulis were high scorers for Maryland with 21 and 20 points. Cohen and McCoy led Miami with 17 each. Miami is now 7-7 and Maryland 7-8 in the season.

South Hagerstown Plays At Allegany, LaSalle At Valley Tonight

Rebels Have Copped Nine Of 11 Games

Keyser Seeks 8th PVC Win; Shepherd At Potomac State

Coach Nick Scallion's South Hagerstown High School Rebels come to town tonight seeking their tenth win of the campaign and a sweep of their season series with Allegany High School's Campers.

The game at Campobello is the only scholastic tilt in Cumberland Tuesday night as LaSalle's Explorers engage Valley High's Black Knights at Lonaconing and Fort Hill is idle until Thursday when the Sentinels tackle the Bulldogs at Martinsburg.

South and Allegany will be meeting for the tenth time and the Rebels held a 5-4 edge in victories.

The Hub City quint beat the Campers twice last season on the way to an 18-3 record by scores of 70-64 in overtime and 55-53 and took the opener of the current series in the Hub City by the score of 50-43.

The Rebels-Campers series opened in 1957 when Allegany beat South High in the district tournament, 67-63. The schools split even in 1958, Allegany winning 62-56 and losing 60-50. South won the only game played in 1959 by the score of 68-46 and Allegany won a pair in 1960, 42-39 and 47-37.

Coach Scallion's quint comes here with a 9-2 record, which includes losses to Waynesboro and Chambersburg. The Rebels hold a 63-56 decision over Martinsburg, beat Mel Henry's Hubs, 47-39 and also turned back Westminster, St. Marie Goretti, twice, Frederick, Allegany, and Alumni and Hancock.

Allegany is having its ups and downs this season and has won six and lost five to date. The Campers are 4-1 at home and have won two and lost four on the road.

Joe Wolfe and Charley Lattimer will officiate tonight's contest set to get under way at 8 o'clock.

Valley Tests LaSalle

LaSalle will be gunning for its 11th victory in 12 starts when it engages the Black Knights at Valley tonight. Coach George Geatz's quint defeated Valley here by the score of 65-51 and the Knights could make it interesting for the Explorers in the series finals.

The Geatzmen will be angling for their fifth straight win over a W.M.I. League team after having disposed of Beall 59-44, Mt. Savage 73-62, Valley and Fort Hill, 70-75. LaSalle is 4-0 in the Potomac Valley Conference with wins over Fort Ashby, Beall, Bayard and Ridgeley and also leads the race for the city championship.

Valley and LaSalle will be colliding in the 18th game of their series which was launched in 1954. The Explorers have won 10 of the 17 games played to date. Valley holds a 5-3 edge in wins at home while LaSalle has taken 7 of the 9 games from the Knights played in Cumberland.

Hawks at Mt. Savage

Mt. Savage hosts the Ridgeley High Black Hawks tonight and the Indians hope to sweep the series after having copped the first game, 64-59. Coach John Thomas' Indians are 8-3 to date while Ridgeley has dropped six in a row and owns a record of 4-8.

Bruce High's Bulldogs make their 13th start tonight when they entertain Southern's Highlanders at Westernport. Coach Leonard Ritchie's team has won nine and lost three, including a 72-54 decision over the Garrett countians who are 4-7 for the season.

Vikings Host Tornado

Keyser High's Golden Tornado goes after its eighth straight victory in the P.V.C. tonight at Petersburg against the Vikings who dropped the series opener to Coach "Eck" Miers' quint, 77-36. Keyser is 9-2 overall while Petersburg is playing .500 ball with a 6-6 mark and is 5-5 in the conference.

In other PVC action tonight, Romney plays at Paw Paw, Bayard at Elk Garden, Wardensville at Capon Bridge and Franklin at Circleville.

Shepherd At Keyser

Coach Richard Bowers' Shepherd College Rams (5-5), idle since January 11, battle Potomac State's Catamounts tonight at 8 o'clock at Keyser in a West Virginia Conference game. Coach "Horse" Lough's team has dropped its last two games to Frostburg State and the West Virginia University Freshmen and is now 5-7 for the season.

South Hagerstown Plays At Allegany, LaSalle At Valley Tonight

Keyser Seeks 8th PVC Win; Shepherd At Potomac State

Coach Nick Scallion's South Hagerstown High School Rebels come to town tonight seeking their tenth win of the campaign and a sweep of their season series with Allegany High School's Campers.

The game at Campobello is the only scholastic tilt in Cumberland Tuesday night as LaSalle's Explorers engage Valley High's Black Knights at Lonaconing and Fort Hill is idle until Thursday when the Sentinels tackle the Bulldogs at Martinsburg.

Meet Tenth Time

South and Allegany will be meeting for the tenth time and the Rebels held a 5-4 edge in victories.

The Hub City quint beat the Campers twice last season on the way to an 18-3 record by scores of 70-64 in overtime and 55-53 and took the opener of the current series in the Hub City by the score of 59-43.

The Rebels-Campers series opened in 1957 when Allegany beat South High in the district tourney, 67-63. The schools split even in 1958, Allegany winning 62-56 and losing 60-50. South won the only game played in 1959 by the score of 68-46 and Allegany won a pair in 1960, 42-39 and 47-37.

Rebels Have 9-2 Record

Coach Scallion's quint comes here with a 9-2 record, which includes losses to Waynesboro and Chambersburg. The Rebels hold a 63-56 decision over Martinsburg, beat Mt. Henry's Hubs, 47-39 and also turned back Westminster, St. Marie Goretti, twice, Frederick Allegany, and Alumni and Hanover.

Allegany is having its ups and downs this season and has won six and lost five to date. The Campers are 4-1 at home and have won two and lost four on the road.

Joe Wolfe and Charley Lattimer will officiate tonight's contest set to get under way at 8 o'clock.

Valley Tests LaSalle

LaSalle will be gunning for its 11th victory in 12 starts when it engages the Black Knights at Valley tonight. Coach George Geatz's quint defeated Valley here by the score of 65-51 and the Knights could make it interesting for the Explorers in the series finals.

The Geatzmen will be angling for their fifth straight win over a W.M.I. League team after having disposed of Beal 59-44, Mt. Savage 73-62, Valley and Fort Hill, 70-75. LaSalle is 4-0 in the Potomac Valley Conference with wins over Fort Ashby, Beal, Bayard and Ridgeley and also leads the race for the city championship. Valley is tied with Fort Hill, Mt. Savage and Bruce for first place in the W.M.I. League.

Valley and LaSalle will be colliding in the 18th game of their series which was launched in 1954. The Explorers have won 10 of the 17 games played to date. Valley holds a 5-3 edge in wins at home while LaSalle has taken 7 of the 9 games from the Knights played in Cumberland.

Hawks at Mt. Savage

Mt. Savage hosts the Ridgeley High Black Hawks tonight and the Indians hope to sweep the series after having copped the first game, 64-59. Coach John Thomas' Indians are 8-3 to date while Ridgeley has dropped six in a row and owns a record of 4-8.

Bruce High's Bulldogs make their 13th start tonight when they entertain Southern's Highlanders at Westernport. Coach Leonard Ritchie's team has won nine and lost three, including a 72-54 decision over the Garrett countians who are 4-7 for the season.

Vikings Host Tornado

Keyser High's Golden Tornado goes after its eighth straight victory in the P.V.C. tonight at Petersburg against the Vikings who dropped the series opener to Coach "Eck" Miers' quint, 77-36. Keyser is 9-2 overall while Petersburg is playing .500 ball with a 6-6 mark and is 5-5 in the conference.

In other PVC action tonight, Romney plays at Paw Paw, Bayard at Elk Garden, Wardensville at Capon Bridge and Franklin at Circleville.

Shepherd At Keyser

Coach Richard Bowers' Shepherd College Rams (5-5), idle since January 11, battle Potomac State's Catamounts tonight at 8 o'clock at Keyser in a West Virginia Conference game. Coach "Horse" Lough's team has dropped its last two games to Frostburg State and the West Virginia University Freshmen and is now 5-7 for the season.

Two Alleged Game Fixers Are Indicted

Offered $500 Bribe To NYU Cage Player

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Wake County grand jury returned an indictment Monday charging Frank (Lefty) Rosenthal of Miami, Fla., and Chicago with offering to bribe a college basketball player to shave points.

The indictment said Rosenthal made the offer to Ray Paprocky of New York University to affect the outcome of his team's game with West Virginia in the NCAA regional contest played March 11, 1960, in Charlotte.

Indicted along with Rosenthal was David Budin, 28, of New York City, Budin previously was indicted by the Wake jury for conspiracy to bribe North Carolina State college players.

The indictment Monday charges that Rosenthal and Budin offered Paprocky $500 to shave points. The score of the game was NYU 82, West Virginia 81.

Solicitor Lester V. Chalmers said that since West Virginia had been favored by five "the fix didn't work and the gamblers lost money."

The indictment did not specify whether Paprocky actually received the $500. Chalmers declined to comment.

The indictment also charged that on the same day, March 11, 1960, Rosenthal and Budin approached Paprocky with a proposition to shave points in a game to be played March 18, 1960, between NYU and Ohio State University in the semifinal round of the NCAA championships in San Francisco, Calif.

Chalmers said that this time no amount was mentioned since as yet there was no favorite in the game.

Bond Fixed At $50,000

Superior Court Judge Raymond Mallard of Tabor City fixed Rosenthal's bond at $50,000.

Chalmers said that Rosenthal was believed to be in Miami.

Local Collegians Win Fourth, 52-46

Allegany Community College's basketball team advanced into the .500 class over the weekend by posting its fourth victory in eight starts over Frederick Junior College in a game staged on the local college court. The score was 52-46.

Frederick held a 27-24 lead at halftime but Coach John Bailey's cagers found the range late in the game and came from behind to win.

Ronnie Riggs, Bill DeArcangelis and Jack Stevenson sparked the ACC offense with 16, 13 and 12 points, respectively. Nail was high scorer for Frederick with 17 tallies.

Allegany Community's next game is with Shenandoah College at Winchester, Va., January 30. Box score:

Moon Glo Captures Roller Hockey Lead

Cumberland's Moon Glo Raiders snapped a deadlock for first place in the Western Pennsylvania Roller Hockey League by turning back the Washington Rockets Saturday in Washington, Pa. The score was 3-2.

Richard Ross scored all three goals as he led the Raiders to their fourth triumph in five league starts. The loss dumped Washington into second place a full game behind the leaders.

Jim Sanders tallied twice in the final period to save Washington from a shutout defeat.

The league will be idle this week, but Cumberland will play host to Bedford's Redcoats in its next game on February 3.

The score:

Washington	W	L	Pct.
Cumberland	0	0	2
Bedford	2	1	0
Goals: Washington — Jim Sanders 2
Cumberland — Richard Ross 3

Referee: Scott Clark.

Goal judges: Chick Horton and Al Moller.

Retrievers Grab Volley Ball Lead

The Retrievers replaced Centre Street Methodist as the leader of the Central YMCA Volley Ball League by winning all five games from the latter last night at the "Y."

Scores of the games were 15-4, 15-9, 16-14, 15-8 and 16-14.

In the other match the Unitarians lost to Celanese, 4-1.

Celanese won by scores of 15-12, 15-7, 15-5 and 19-17 after dropping the first game, 15-11.

Standing of the teams:

Lefty Russell, Former Major Leaguer, Dies

Pitcher Once Sold For Record $12,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — Clarence (Lefty) Russell, 71, a major league baseball pitcher known for his fast ball and spitball 50 years ago, died Monday.

When Russell was sold by the old Baltimore Orioles to the Philadelphia Athletics for $12,000 in 1910, it was the highest price ever paid for a player. Rube Marquard previously had been sold for $11,000.

Russell was plagued by arm trouble, however, and he left the majors when Connie Mack, manager of the As, sold him in 1912 to Atlanta of the Southern League.

His first professional baseball job, at $75 a month, was with Hagerstown, Md. He played there for two years before the Orioles signed him in 1909.

Russell attributed the sore arm to his bowling in the off-season. He managed for four years, at Mahanoy City, Pa., and Sheboygan, Wis., before quitting baseball to go to work on the Baltimore waterfront. When he retired four years ago, he was superintendent of the Jarra Corp.

His wife, Jessie, died a few weeks ago. He is survived by one son and two daughters.

Funeral services will be held Thursday with burial in Dulany Memorial Gardens in suburban Baltimore.

Zoning Board Denies Permit For Auto Yard

Split Decision Is Unit's First

Allegany County's Board of Appeals, in its first contested case, has ruled that the presence of a dismantling yard in the Triple Lakes area would be deleterious to the values and quality of adjacent property.

The board split, two-to-one, in its decision on the application of John Cross and James L. Niner for a special permit for construction and operation of a dismantling yard for used cars at the Triple Lakes Auto Mart, located on top of a hill about 700 feet east of McMullen Highway.

Everett G. Partridge, board chairman, and Ralph G. Cover voted to deny the permit while Wilbur Johnson voted in favor of it.

The hearing on this application was held on December 28 at the Court House. The actual deciding vote in this case was cast from Florida by Mr. Cover. After attending the hearing, he had gone to Florida on a vacation trip. When Mr. Partridge and Mr. Johnson were unable to reach an agreement, they had to write to Mr. Cover for the deciding vote.

"The board wishes to state that the purpose of zoning is to devote general areas of districts to selected uses and thereby promote the orderly development of the community. The whole idea of zoning is territorial division according to the character of the land and buildings, their suitability for particular uses and uniformity within the zone.

"The board recognizes the aforementioned principles and finds that under the provisions of Section 5 and 6A of the Interim Zoning Ordinance, that to grant the application would be contrary to the best interests of the county in that the presence of a dismantling yard would be deleterious to the values and quality of the planned residential subdivision of Mr. Bert Mason, whose property adjoins the proposed site on the northeast; the house and property of Mr. Franklin H. Young, which adjoin the proposed site on the southeast side; and the Allegany Land Company's Bel Air Homes Development, which lies adjacent to the southwest of the proposed site, and which has several homes already erected.

"The application therefore of John Cross and James L. Niner for a special permit to establish a dismantling yard at the aforementioned site at Triple Lakes, Maryland, is hereby denied, with the right to appeal within 30 days from the date of this decision, to the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland."

A second hearing was held by the appeals board on January 11 on the application of Chelsie A. Liller to establish a trailer court on the north side of McMullen Highway just beyond the Circle Inn.

When no opposition was raised to this application at the hearing, Mr. Partridge and Mr. Johnson agreed that it should be granted.

Man Guilty In Theft Case

The man, Charles Donald Thompson, was found guilty of the petty larceny charge by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Detective Harry L. Iser charged Thompson with taking the money from Delcie Mulloly who operates the Dutch Kitchen, 20 South Lee Street. The money was taken from a cash register while the bartender was in the rear of the building.

Man Held For Jury In Morals Case

Frederick Ronald Metzner, 23, of 1149 Braddock Road, LaVale, yesterday was ordered held for action of the April term of the grand jury on a morals charge.

Metzner was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett, who set bond at $1,000. Metzner was committed to the County Jail in default of bond.

The LaVale man was arrested yesterday morning by State Police and questioned by Tfc. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

Potomac State College Has Top Producing Cow

The December butterfat champion of Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 2 was an Ayshire cow from the Potomac State College farm at Keyser, according to the monthly report of Miss Ruth Buser, association supervisor.

Katim, the champion for December, had 88 pounds of butterfat in 1,600 pounds of milk, a percentage of 5.5.

Plan 1962 Cancer Drive

Officials of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society last night made plans for the 1962 fund drive which will begin in several months. Left to right are Edward J. Hyde, assistant director of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society; Mrs. Lucille Roeder, who was re-elected president of the county chapter last night; and Robert G. Garner, general chairman of the 1962 fund raising campaign. Last night's annual meeting also included the election of officers and board of directors.

Maryland Tax Revenue Ahead Of Last Year

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Revenues from Maryland's major tax sources in the first half of the fiscal year ran 13.6 per cent ahead of those for the same period last year, the comptroller's office reported Monday.

But, said Irvin W. Young, chief of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates, there is no reason to anticipate a fat surplus in the treasury on June 30. Many of the sources will level off during the second half of the year.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported that the nine major tax sources brought in $157,998,219 for the period from July 1 through Dec. 31. The increase was $18,879,036 more than for the same six months in 1960 and, on the basis of estimates for the full fiscal year, ran some 3 per cent ahead of forecasts.

Estimates Exceeded

Sales and income taxes, which together make up three fourths of the state's general fund revenues, both showed gains over estimates.

Individual income taxes totaled $49,209,784, an increase of 8.4 per cent over the corresponding six months in fiscal 1961. Official estimates call for this tax to produce 6.7 per cent more this year. Young said the rise will probably end up about 7 per cent.

Corporation income taxes threw the fiscal guessers a real curve ball. These are expected to run 6.9 per cent below collections last fiscal year. For the first six months they totaled $4,279,011, an increase of 11.8 per cent.

Young said this was mainly attributable to a heavy flood of returns in December and that the tax should adjust closer to estimates in the second half of the year.

Sales Tax Take Up

Sales tax collections totaled $44,282,813, a whopping increase of $6,416,368 over the first half of fiscal 1961. This was primarily because the tax base was lowered to purchases of 25 cents on July 1 and it was applied to meals costing $1 or over.

Revenue estimators had predicted in their latest forecast in November that the tax would produce 15.4 per cent more this year, but so far the increase is running 16.9 per cent. Young said this is highly encouraging but inconclusive since collections on Christmas sales have not yet been reported.

Clothes Destroyed In Local Blaze

Clothes on a clothes tree at 312 Independence Street were destroyed by fire which was believed to have been started yesterday by children playing at that address.

Firemen from East Side station, who were called at 9:17 a.m. quenched the flames. The clothes tree was located in a living room of the downstairs of the two-story Building. The fire was caused by a child playing with matches. The clothes tree was located in a living room of the downstairs of the two-story building.

Firm Begins Working On Master Plan

Land Use Survey Slated This Week

Two members of the staff of Blair Associates arrived here yesterday to begin work on the preparation of a comprehensive plan for the development of the City of Cumberland.

They are Douglas R. Porter, planner, and Charles Simon, designer for the Washington planning firm.

They will establish their office in the former Civil Service room on the second floor of City Hall.

The firm early this month was awarded a contract by the State Planning Commission for the 22-month study which is being financed largely by federal funds.

The planners expect to spend this week preparing a land use survey and a building condition survey.

To be made concurrently, the studies will provide basic information needed for the long-range study.

Inventory Study

The studies will tell what the city has in the way of buildings and their condition, and where the residential, business and industrial areas are located.

They will be part of the inventory which will be made of the present physical condition of the city. Later studies, to begin within the next month, will include economic and population analyses and forecasts.

Much of this week will be devoted to securing base maps—most of which will be supplied by the city—and to secure aerial photographs, which are available through the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Porter and Mr. Simon, spent part of yesterday afternoon on a self-conducted tour of the city, saying they wanted to get their bearings before beginning any detailed work.

Assigned To Study

Both men, along with other members of the Blair Associates staff, will be assigned to the Cumberland study from time to time. They plan to keep the study moving until March 1, when John R. Joyner reports here to become resident planner.

They conferred yesterday with City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and Assistant City Engineer Charles Scarlett, who assured them the city will make all of its maps and data available.

City officials are also expected to scrape together some furnishings for the planning office, which yesterday was equipped with a desk, drawing board and several chairs.

George T. Marcou, an associate of the firm, will be in charge of the Cumberland planning, and will be here from time to time, and attend meetings of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Your Child And College: Which College?

Editor's note: This article, second in a series prepared by the National Education Association, was written by Eugene S. Wilson, dean of admission at Amherst (Mass.) College.

By EUGENE S. WILSON

Theoretically, there may be one perfect college for your child. Practically speaking, however, there are probably many colleges among the more than 2,000 accredited institutions of higher learning in the United States that are equally suitable for him.

The final selection of a college rightfully belongs to your youngster, but you (and the high-school counselor) should point out what needs to be considered. Before doing so, be clear in your own mind which factors are really important and which are not.

These, for example, are some of the less important considerations:

Even if you did graduate from "the best college in the world," your youngster's future doesn't hang on whether or not he studies in the hallowed halls of that institution.

The old college has changed. For one thing, its standards of admission are probably much stiffer today. (Quite possibly you couldn't get in yourself now.) Few of the teachers you knew are still there. Social life, campus activities, athletics, and even fraternities have changed.

So stop clanging the cymbals for your favorite college—at least until you and your youngster find out whether it fits his needs.

Suggestions by acquaintances or distant relatives ought not to be taken too seriously. Such people may (or may not) know a lot about the colleges they recommend, but they aren't in a good position to know how well suited the colleges are for your son or daughter. Too often, a college-bound student is unduly influenced by the bubbling enthusiasm of Uncle Silo's brother-in-law or by his father's partner's best friend.

The mating instinct should not get much consideration in selecting a college. This factor is most likely to influence a girl's choice of school, but it has also been known to influence a boy's selection. With modern transportation no girl's college is far from the ever-searching, ever-seeking male. In spite of rumors that co-educational institutions are the only happy hunting grounds, graduates of women's colleges are just about as likely to marry as graduates of coeducational institutions.

Whether or not a college is smothered in ivy is of no great importance. Some people believe that going to a prestige institution will automatically guarantee status, a large income, and a good chance of making Who's Who. This belief is wrong. It is also unfortunate: Those who gain admittance to the most competitive institutions are inclined to feel they've got it made for life—that without much further effort they'll go into orbit and stay there. Those admitted to less competitive colleges are afraid they'll never get far off the launching pad.

No college can supply a student with brains he didn't bring with him. On the other hand, all accredited institutions offer students a chance to make of themselves what they will according to their talents and their motivation.

Business firms and graduate schools select students because of what they are and what they have done, not because of the collegiate label they wear. Prestige is not transferable from college to man. A man can, however, bring prestige to a college.

Let's turn now to the factors that are important in selecting a college:

The most important of all is whether the college is right for your youngster in terms of his motivation, goals, abilities, interests, needs, and personality. A college that is fine for Peter

Library Board Airls New State Aid Proposal

Trustees Defer Any Endorsement

The board of trustees of the Allegany County Library, meeting last night at the Court House, took under advisement a statewide proposal providing for additional state aid for public libraries.

The State Department of Education, of which the Maryland Public Libraries is a division, has prepared a formula and a proposed legislative measure designed to increase the amount of state aid to state and county library systems.

Under the present 1945 public libraries law each qualifying county and Baltimore City must appropriate a minimum of two cents on each $100 of assessed valuation of taxable property for exclusive use of its particular public library. The county then qualifies for certain state and federal aids.

The present state formula of assistance is based upon a per capita basis, ranging from 12 to 18 cents per capita in each qualifying county. It is pointed out that more than half of the qualifying units or counties are appropriating more than the minimum required by law to operate their libraries and bookmobiles.

Offer New Formula

Under the proposed plan, the formula is considered by those who prepared it to be a more firm relationship between state and local support. The new proposal would provide that the state pay approximately 30 per cent of the total cost and the county units 70 per cent of the cost of a minimum program of library services, based on $120 per capita for the first step.

Actual percentages of state and local support for each unit will vary according to the local unit's ability to pay in relation to the ability of the state as a whole, except that no unit will receive less than 20 per cent in state funds for a minimum program.

The local percentage is determined by dividing the taxable wealth per capita of the state as a whole, and then multiplying this ratio by 70 per cent.

The state's share to be paid each county and Baltimore City is determined by subtracting from 100 per cent the local percentage share.

County To Get $45,118

As the formula is worked out, Allegany County would receive, under the bill $45,118 in state funds for library use, instead of $13,467 under the present law. Under the proposed bill, the county would be required to appropriate $55,885 to get the $45,118. The present appropriation is $44,600 from the county, which gets $13,467 in state aid.

Members of the board, according to Dr. Adam Baer, chairman, realize that the county library needs more money for operation and expansion. However, he said board members did not agree that they should make an immediate endorsement of the proposal.

The Maryland Library Association is asking all local library boards to contact their legislators and urge passage of the proposed bill at next month's short session of the General Assembly, and to encourage public support and sentiment in favor of the bill.

State Cost Triples

The local trustees decided to study the bill, the formula and all facts before deciding whether to favor or oppose the plan and the legislation. Trustees all agreed that consideration of the local cost should be studied beyond the "first step" mentioned in the bill. The trustees agreed they are in favor of state aid for libraries, but not at a high cost at the local level.

Members agreed they will welcome expressions of opinion from interested persons.

The measure, in its present form, does not provide for additional revenue from any specific source. The cost to the state will increase the first year from $406,301 under present law to $1,180,404.

Retired Police To Be Honored

Two veteran police officers who retired from the Cumberland Police Department will be honored Friday night during a meeting of Fort Cumberland Lodge 90, Fraternal Order of Police.

John G. Powers, 123 Hanover Street, and Edward P. Wilson, 114 Weber Street, will be presented certificates for their long active service with the department.

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney said yesterday that Powers, who became a member of the department on October 11, 1936, retired on November 14 last year.

Mr. Wilson, who joined the department on June 2, 1936, retired on September 7, 1959. President of the FOP lodge here Detective Capt. James E. Van, who said the meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

Firemen Meet Today

Volunteer firemen of LaVale will meet tonight at 8 in the fire hall, according to Paul L. Boch, president, who urges all members to be present as important business matters will be discussed.

Zoning Board Denies Permit For Auto Yard

Split Decision Is Unit's First

Allegany County's Board of Appeals, in its first contested case, has ruled that the presence of a dismantling yard in the Triple Lakes area would be deleterious to the values and quality of adjacent property.

The board split, two-to-one, in its decision on the application of John Cross and James L. Niner for a special permit for construction and operation of a dismantling yard for used cars at the Triple Lakes Auto Mart, located on top of a hill about 700 feet east of McMullen Highway.

Everett G. Partridge, board chairman, and Ralph G. Cover voted to deny the permit while Wilbur Johnson voted in favor of it.

The hearing on this application was held on December 28 at the Court House. The actual deciding vote in this case was cast from Florida by Mr. Cover. After attending the hearing, he had gone to Florida on a vacation trip. When Mr. Partridge and Mr. Johnson were unable to reach an agreement, they had to write to Mr. Cover for the deciding vote.

"The board wishes to state that the purpose of zoning is to devote general areas of districts to selected uses and thereby promote the orderly development of the community. The whole idea of zoning is territorial division according to the character of the land and buildings, their suitability for particular uses and uniformity within the zone.

"The board recognizes the aforesaid principles and finds that under the provisions of Section 5 and 6A of the Interim Zoning Ordinance, that to grant the application would be contrary to the best interests of the county in that the presence of a dismantling yard would be deleterious to the values and quality of the planned residential subdivision of Mr. Bert Mason, whose property adjoins the proposed site on the northeast; the house and property of Mr. Franklin H. Young, which adjoin the proposed site on the southeast side; and the Allegany Land Company's Bel Air Homes Development, which lies adjacent to the southwest of the proposed site, and which has several homes already erected.

"The application therefore of John Cross and James L. Niner for a special permit to establish a dismantling yard at the aforesaid site at Triple Lakes, Maryland, is hereby denied, with the right to appeal within 30 days from the date of this decision, to the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland."

A second hearing was held by the appeals board on January 11 on the application of Chelsie A. Liller to establish a trailer court on the north side of McMullen Highway just beyond the Circle Inn.

When no opposition was raised to this application at the hearing, Mr. Partridge and Mr. Johnson agreed that it should be granted.

Man Guilty In Theft Case

A Virginia man yesterday was fined $100 and given a suspended jail sentence in the theft of $76 from a West Side tavern on Saturday.

The man, Charles Donald Thompson, was found guilty of the petty larceny charge by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Magistrate Barnett fined Thompson $100 and gave him a 90-day suspended sentence on condition he make restitution.

Detective Harry L. Iser charged Thompson with taking the money from Delcie Mullooly who operates the Dutch Kitchen, 20 South Lee Street. The money was taken from a cash register while the bartender was in the rear of the building.

Man Held For Jury In Morals Case

Frederick Ronald Metzner, 23, of 1149 Braddock Road, LaVale, yesterday was ordered held for action of the April term of the grand jury on a morals charge. Metzner was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett, who set bond at $1,000. Metzner was committed to the County Jail in default of bond.

The LaVale man was arrested yesterday morning by State Police and questioned by Tfc. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

Potomac State College Has Top Producing Cow

Maryland Tax Revenue Ahead Of Last Year

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Revenues from Maryland's major tax sources in the first half of the fiscal year ran 13.6 per cent ahead of those for the same period last year, the comptroller's office reported Monday.

But, said Irvin W. Young, chief of the Bureau of Revenue Estimates, there is no reason to anticipate a fat surplus in the treasury on June 30. Many of the sources will level off during the second half of the year.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported that the nine major tax sources brought in $157,998,219 for the period from July 1 through Dec. 31. The increase was $18,879,036 more than for the same six months in 1960 and, on the basis of estimates for the full fiscal year, ran some 3 per cent ahead of forecasts.

Estimates Exceeded

Sales and income taxes, which together make up three fourths of the state's general fund revenues, both showed gains over estimates.

Individual income taxes totaled $49,209,784, an increase of 8.4 per cent over the corresponding six months in fiscal 1961. Official estimates call for this tax to produce 6.7 per cent more this year. Young said the rise will probably end up about 7 per cent.

Corporation income taxes threw the fiscal guessers a real curve ball. These are expected to run 6.9 per cent below collections last fiscal year. For the first six months they totaled $4,279,011, an increase of 11.8 per cent.

Young said this was mainly attributable to a heavy flood of returns in December and that the tax should adjust closer to estimates in the second half of the year.

Sales Tax Take Up

Sales tax collections totaled $44,282,813, a whopping increase of $6,416,368 over the first half of fiscal 1961. This was primarily because the tax base was lowered to purchases of 25 cents on July 1 and it was applied to meals costing $1 or over.

Revenue estimators had predicted in their latest forecast in November that the tax would produce 15.4 per cent more this year, but so far the increase is running 16.9 per cent. Young said this is highly encouraging but inconclusive since collections on Christmas sales have not yet been reported.

Mrs. Roeder Again Heads Cancer Unit

Mrs. Lucille Roeder last night was re-elected president of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society at the local unit's annual meeting.

Other officers elected last night include Okey Michael, vice president; Miss Mary Margaret Smith, secretary; and John H. Mosner, treasurer.

Mrs. Regina Cioni also was re-named executive secretary of the county chapter.

Also named to the board of directors last night were Fred H. Anderson, John E. Byrd, Dr. Carlton Brinsfield, Mrs. William A. Douglas, Robert G. Garner, Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, Dr. L. Ley Jr., Herman L. Myers, Hudson Nix, Walter J. Patterson, Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone, Dr. Martin M. Rothstein, Dr. Benedict Skitarelle, Mrs. Helen S. Vogel, William A. Williams and Miss Christine J. Williams.

Last night's meeting included a discussion on the upcoming campaign by Edward J. Hyde, assistant director of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society.

Mr. Hyde also outlined the society's educational program and the new procedures in cancer treatment.

The spelling match is being arranged at the request of members of the club.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director and club advisor, will be moderator. Members who wish to take part will be divided into two teams and a prize will be awarded the winning team.

The program will open with a brief service to honor John E. Bennett, 534 Fort Avenue, a charter member, who died here last week. He will be eulogized by Charles E. Shaw, a member of the club.

The program will end with a social period, refreshments and card playing.

Membership in the club, which is open to all who are 60 or over, ranges between 60 and 65.

Permit Issued

A permit for the construction of a 114 by 95 foot addition to Gephart School, 930 Frederick Street, was issued by the City of Cumberland yesterday.

The permit was secured by the George F. Hazelwood Company, which will build the $163,735 addition for the Board of Education. The fee for the work was waived by the city.

Work is expected to begin immediately. It includes the construction of three new classrooms, a principal's office and conversion of the auditorium to provide two classrooms, a health room and a general purpose room.

Firm Begins Working On Master Plan

Land Use Survey Slated This Week

Two members of the staff of Blair Associates arrived here yesterday to begin work on the preparation of a comprehensive plan for the development of the City of Cumberland.

They are Douglas R. Porter, planner, and Charles Simon, designer for the Washington planning firm.

They will establish their office in the former Civil Service room on the second floor of City Hall. The firm early this month was awarded a contract by the State Planning Commission for the 22-month study which is being financed largely by federal funds.

The planners expect to spend this week preparing a land use survey and a building condition survey.

To be made concurrently, the studies will provide basic information needed for the long-range study.

Inventory Study

The studies will tell what the city has in the way of buildings and their condition, and where the residential, business and industrial areas are located.

They will be part of the inventory which will be made of the present physical condition of the city. Later studies, to begin within the next month, will include economic and population analyses and forecasts.

Much of this week will be devoted to securing base maps—most of which will be supplied by the city—and to secure aerial photographs, which are available through the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Porter and Mr. Simon, spent part of yesterday afternoon on a self-conducted tour of the city, saying they wanted to get their bearings before beginning any detailed work.

Assigned To Study

Both men, along with other members of the Blair Associates staff, will be assigned to the Cumberland study from time to time.

They plan to keep the study moving until March 1, when John R. Joyner reports here to become resident planner.

They conferred yesterday with City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and Assistant City Engineer Charles Scarlett, who assured them the city will make all of its maps and data available.

City officials are also expected to scrape together some furnishings for the planning office, which yesterday was equipped with a desk, drawing board and several chairs.

George T. Marcou, an associate of the firm, will be in charge of the Cumberland planning, and will be here from time to time, and attend meetings of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Your Child And College:

Which College?

Editor's note: This article, second in a series prepared by the National Education Association, was written by Eugene S. Wilson, dean of admission at Amherst (Mass.) College.

By EUGENE S. WILSON

Theoretically, there may be one perfect college for your child. Practically speaking, however, there are probably many colleges among the more than 2,000 accredited institutions of higher learning in the United States that are equally suitable for him.

The final selection of a college rightfully belongs to your youngster, but you (and the high-school counselor) should point out what needs to be considered. Before doing so, be clear in your own mind which factors are really important and which are not.

These, for example, are some of the less important considerations:

Even if you did graduate from "the best college in the world," your youngster's future doesn't hang on whether or not he studies in the hallowed halls of that institution.

The old college has changed. For one thing, its standards of admission are probably much stiffer today. (Quite possibly you couldn't get in yourself now.) Few of the teachers you knew are still there. Social life, campus activities, athletics, and even fraternities have changed.

So stop clanging the cymbals for your favorite college—at least until you and your youngster find out whether it fits his needs.

Suggestions by acquaintances or distant relatives ought not to be taken too seriously. Such people may (or may not) know a lot about the colleges they recommend, but they aren't in a good position to know how well suited the colleges are for your son or daughter. Too often, a college-bound student is unduly influenced by the bubbling enthusiasm of Uncle Silo's brother-in-law or by his father's partner's best friend.

The mating instinct should not get much consideration in selecting a college. This factor is most likely to influence a girl's choice of school, but it has also been known to influence a boy's selection. With modern transportation no girls' college is far from the ever-searching, ever-seeking male. In spite of rumors that educational institutions are the only happy hunting grounds, graduates of women's colleges are just about as likely to marry as graduates of coeducational institutions.

Whether or not a college is smothered in ivy is of no great importance. Some people believe that going to a prestige institution will automatically guarantee status, a large income, and a good chance of making Who's Who.

This belief is wrong. It is also unfortunate: Those who gain admittance to the most competitive institutions are inclined to feel they've got it made for life—that without much further effort they'll go into orbit and stay there. Those admitted to less competitive colleges are afraid they'll never get far off the launching pad.

No college can supply a student with brains he didn't bring with him. On the other hand, all accredited institutions offer students a chance to make of themselves what they will according to their talents and their motivation.

Business firms and graduate schools select students because of what they are and what they have done, not because of the collegiate label they wear. Prestige is not transferable from college to man. A man can, however, bring prestige to a college.

Let's turn now to the factors that are important in selecting a college:

The most important of all is whether the college is right for your youngster in terms of his motivation, goals, abilities, interests, needs, and personality. A college that is fine for Peter

Library Board Aids New State Aid Proposal

Trustees Defer Any Endorsement

The board of trustees of the Allegany County Library, meeting last night at the Court House, took under advisement a state-wide proposal providing for additional state aid for public libraries.

The State Department of Education, of which the Maryland Public Libraries is a division, has prepared a formula and a proposed legislative measure designed to increase the amount of state aid to state and county library systems.

Under the present 1945 public libraries law each qualifying county and Baltimore City must appropriate a minimum of two cents on each $100 of assessed valuation of taxable property for exclusive use of its particular public library. The county then qualifies for certain state and federal aids.

The present state formula of assistance is based upon a per capita basis, ranging from 12 to 18 cents per capita in each qualifying county. It is pointed out that more than half of the qualifying units or counties are appropriating more than the minimum required by law to operate their libraries and bookmobiles.

Offer New Formula

Under the proposed plan, the formula is considered by those who prepared it to be a more firm relationship between state and local support. The new proposal would provide that the state pay approximately 30 per cent of the total cost and the county units 70 per cent of the cost of a minimum program of library services, based on $1.20 per capita for the first step.

Actual percentages of state and local support for each unit will vary according to the local unit's ability to pay in relation to the ability of the state as a whole, except that no unit will receive less than 20 per cent in state funds for a minimum program.

The local percentage is determined by dividing the taxable wealth per capita of the state as a whole, and then multiplying this ratio by 70 per cent.

The state's share to be paid each county and Baltimore City is determined by subtracting from 100 per cent the local percentage share.

County To Get $45,118

As the formula is worked out, Allegany County would receive, under the bill $45,118 in state funds for library use, instead of $13,467 under the present law. Under the proposed bill, the county would be required to appropriate $55,885 to get the $45,118. The present appropriation is $44,600 from the county, which gets $13,467 in state aid.

Members of the board, according to Dr. Adam Baer, chairman, realize that the county library needs more money for operation and expansion. However, he said board members did not agree that they should make an immediate endorsement of the proposal.

The Maryland Library Association is asking all local library boards to contact their legislators and urge passage of the proposed bill at next month's short session of the General Assembly, and to encourage public support and sentiment in favor of the bill.

State Cost Triples

The local trustees decided to study the bill, the formula and all facts before deciding whether to favor or oppose the plan and the legislation. Trustees all agreed that consideration of the local cost should be studied beyond the "first step" mentioned in the bill. The trustees agreed they are in favor of state aid for libraries, but not at a high cost at the local level.

Members agreed they will welcome expressions of opinion from interested persons.

The measure, in its present form, does not provide for additional revenue from any specific source. The cost to the state will increase the first year from $406,301 under present law to $1,180,404.

Retired Police To Be Honored

Two veteran police officers who retired from the Cumberland Police Department will be honored Friday night during a meeting of Fort Cumberland Lodge 90, Fraternal Order of Police.

John G. Powers, 123 Hanover Street, and Edward P. Wilson, 114 Weber Street, will be presented certificates for their long active service with the department.
